Hands on Monash Indigenous Summer Camp

6 – 8 December 2016
The 2016 summer camp aims to provide Indigenous students from year 10 – 12 (must be 16 years old at the time of the camp) with an in-depth insight into university life, while focusing on team-building, motivation, meeting new people, confidence-building, and health and wellbeing.

Over three days students have the opportunity to experience the following; • Stories, advice and mentoring from our current students • Cultural activities • Careers and course advice • Student support advice • Keynote speeches from community leaders, academics and other inspiring people • ‘Hands on’ faculty activities in:
  – Arts and Law
  – Art and Design
  – Engineering and Information Technology
  – Business and Education
  – Science, Medicine, Nursing, Health Sciences and Pharmacy.

■ Monash Sport activities
■ Staying on campus
■ Question and Answer panel with staff and students
■ 10 pin bowling, sport activities and more
Emily Estcourt

The key point for Emily prior to commencing at Monash was at the first Monash Hands on Indigenous Summer Camp. Until then, tertiary study was not something she had considered.

The camp gave her a taste of life on campus and introduced her to a range of opportunities, particularly the Monash Indigenous Scholarship for Achievement and Equity. The scholarship soon turned university education into a reality for her.

Emily completed a Bachelor of Arts, with a major in Indigenous Studies and a minor in Behavioural Studies. She credits the Monash Yulendi Indigenous Engagement Unit for helping her through her course, providing clear course guidance and keeping students active and involved in the University community. Emily now has a full time position as the HR Operations Analyst for Viva Energy Australia.

She has since returned to the summer camp as a mentor, where she uses her course knowledge to guide new participants. She is also a student ambassador and an alumni member of Career Trackers Indigenous Internship program.

Once your application is completed

You will be notified and given further information and instructions.
