INNOVATE RECONCILIATION
Action Plan
June 2023 – June 2025
We acknowledge the Traditional Owners, and Elders past and present, of all the lands on which Monash University operates.

Acknowledgements

Monash acknowledges the Elders past, present and emerging, and the descendants of the people of the Eastern Kulin nation who have been and are the Custodians of the lands upon which this work was conducted. We acknowledge that this land is the place of age-old ceremonies, of celebration, initiation and renewal, and that the local Aboriginal peoples have had and continue to have a unique role in the life of these lands.

Kulin Nation: When Europeans first settled what we now refer to as the Port Phillip region it was already occupied by five Aboriginal language groups. These groups spoke a related language and were part of the KULIN (Koolin) nation of peoples. The peoples are:

- Woiwurrung (Woy-wur-rung) - The Wurundjeri People
- Boonerwrung (Bun-er-rong) - The Boonerwung People
- Wathaurung (Wath-er-rong) - The Wathaurung People
- Taungerong (Tung-ger-rong) - The Taungerong People

Reconciliation Australia commends Monash University on the formal endorsement of its second Innovative Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP).

Since 2006, RAPs have provided a framework for organisations to leverage their structures and diverse spheres of influence to support the national reconciliation movement.

With close to 3 million people now either working or studying in organisations with a RAP, the program’s potential for impact is greater than ever. Monash University continues to be part of a strong network of more than 2,200 corporate, government, and not-for-profit organisations that have taken goodwill and transformed it into action.

The four RAP types — Reflect, Innovate, Stretch and Elevate — allow RAP partners to continuously strengthen reconciliation foundations and relationships that ensure sustainable, thoughtful, and impactful RAP outcomes into the future.

An integral part of building these foundations is reflecting on and cataloguing the successes and challenges of previous RAPs. Learning gained through effort and innovation are invaluable resources that Monash University will continuously draw upon to create RAP commitments rooted in experience and maturity.

These learnings extend to Monash University using the lens of reconciliation to better understand its core business, sphere of influence, and diverse community of staff and stakeholders.

The RAP program’s emphasis on relationships, respect, and opportunities gives organisations a framework from which to foster connections with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples rooted in mutual collaboration and trust.

This Innovative RAP is an opportunity for Monash University to strengthen these relationships, gain crucial experience, and nurture connections that will become the bedrock of its future RAP commitments. By enabling and empowering staff to contribute to this process, Monash University will ensure shared and cooperative success in the long-term.

Gainex experience and reflecting on pertinent learnings will ensure the sustainability of Monash University’s future RAPs through innovation initiatives, providing meaningful impact toward Australia’s reconciliation journey.

Congratulations Monash University on your second Innovative RAP and I look forward to following your ongoing reconciliation journey.

Karen Mundine
Chief Executive Officer
Reconciliation Australia

Impact 2030, Monash University’s Strategic Plan, outlines our intent to contribute to the creation of a society that recognises, respects and includes Indigenous peoples, cultures and knowledge. Monash is committed to working with and celebrating Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, cultures and knowledge, as well as Indigenous peoples of other places where Monash has a campus or major presence.

Our third Reconciliation Action Plan affirms the University’s commitment to advancing the education and research aspirations of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. This Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) supports building a University community that embraces Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples across all facets of the organisation, providing tangible and substantive benefits for Indigenous peoples, increasing economic equity and supporting Indigenous self-determination.

The development of this plan was led by the Pro Vice-Chancellor (Indigenous), the William Cooper Institute, and supported by the Pro Vice-Chancellor (Domestic) and the Reconciliation Action Plan Working Group. The RAP covers all four pillars of the Monash Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework 2019-2026.

It has been a great pleasure to be involved in the development of Monash University’s third RAP which affirms Monash’s genuine commitment to advancing the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, through quality education and career pathways.

I plan forward to witnessing many positive outcomes as we work toward achieving our targets over the next two years.

Professor Tristan Kennedy
Pro Vice-Chancellor (Indigenous)
Our Vision for Reconciliation

As one of Australia’s leading education providers, Monash is committed to working with and celebrating Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, cultures and knowledge, as well as Indigenous peoples of other places where Monash has a campus or major presence. This work is guided by the Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation Act (1991) and United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. The University will contribute to the creation of this society by working with and celebrating Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, cultures and knowledge, as well as First Nations peoples of other places where Monash has a campus or major presence.

Monash University proudly acknowledges that its Australian campuses stand on the traditional lands of the peoples of the Kulin nations. For millennia, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have lived in Australia. Generations communicated across the vast continent via many unique languages and created intricate societies with complex cultural practices and spiritual traditions. Although these societies differed markedly from one another they shared the conception that the land has always been part of their spiritual domain. Connections to the lands, waters, territories and resources were maintained by rules, laws and lore.

Colonisers arrived in the eighteenth-century creating turmoil and disruption that has lasted for over two centuries. This collision of cultures led to dispossession and disadvantage as Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander ways of living, as languages and cultures were eroded. Many families lost connections to country and each other, which led to profound personal loss and cultural damage. Government policies saw Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples treated unfairly and subject to social and economic marginalisation. In the face of this adversity Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have resolutely survived. Through this resilience Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people remain an integral part of Australian society as the first peoples.

Monash Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework

We were the first Australian university to have a dedicated Australian Indigenous Research Centre – the Monash Centre for Research into Aboriginal Affairs, established in 1964. The legacy of that centre continues today, through the Monash Indigenous Studies Centre, the William Cooper Institute, and Gukwonderuk Indigenous Health.

Launched in 2019, the Monash Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework 2019 - 2030 establishes our commitment to making a leading national and international contribution to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander advancement. As the University with the longest history of engagement in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander education in Australia, this Framework once realised in 2030, will represent over 75 years of effort and achievements in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander higher education in Australia.

Our Path to Reconciliation

In 2013, Monash’s then Vice-Chancellor, Professor Ed Byrne and then Chair of the Indigenous Advisory Council, Professor Colin Bourke launched the University’s inaugural RAP (2013-2014). This RAP was established as a Reflect RAP. Known as the Scoping Reconciliation RAP, this RAP assisted Monash in the preparation for reconciliation initiatives in successive RAPs. Committing to a Reflect RAP allowed Monash time to further scope and develop relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander stakeholders to assist in the decision of a vision for reconciliation before committing to specific actions or initiatives.

In 2016, Monash continued its commitment to advancing the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, through quality education and career pathways with the launch of its second RAP, Innovate RAP. This RAP was officially launched by the Vice-Chancellor and President Professor Margaret Gardner AC, and Chair of the Indigenous Advisory Council. Known as the Implementing Reconciliation RAP, the Innovate RAP focused on developing and strengthening relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, engaging staff and stakeholders in reconciliation, and developing and piloting innovative strategies to empower Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

The institutional learnings of the first two RAPs were significant and innovative programs were established for advancing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff, students and community. In 2019, Monash launched the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework 2019-2030. The commitments set out in our first two RAPs remain strong, both within the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework and now in this third RAP for the period 2023-2025.

Through our teaching, research and community engagement, Monash has made a substantial and ongoing contribution to reconciliation by fostering mutually-beneficial partnerships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities. We have created an enduring legacy through our Indigenous and non-Indigenous alumni, both students and staff, who have subsequently progressed in their professional careers to advance research, knowledge and awareness of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples, cultures and issues.

This commitment to Reconciliation has been enhanced by Monash’s previous two Reconciliation Action Plans:

1. Reconciliation Action Plan 2013-2014; and

Our new RAP sets out our ambitions for advancing Reconciliation over the next 2 years, 2023-2025. The RAP closely aligns with the University’s overarching strategies - Impact 2030 and the Monash Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework: 2019-2030. The RAP Working Group is representative of Monash’s Indigenous and non-Indigenous community, comprising academic and professional staff representation across Monash’s ten faculties and central divisions.

The RAP represents Monash’s commitment to addressing the 5 identified critical dimensions that together represent a holistic and comprehensive picture of Reconciliation as identified by Reconciliation Australia:

1. Race Relations;
2. Equality and Equity;
3. Institutional Integrity;
4. Historical Acceptance; and
5. Unity.

Monash University Innovate Reconciliation Action Plan 2023–2025
Risk Implications

The implementation of the RAP will assist Monash to meet its commitments to the strategic imperatives listed above, thus reducing the risk profile in these important areas.

Impact

Embracing and promoting the Reconciliation process will enhance the two-way knowledge process and recognise the contributions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples. Monash’s commitment to the Reconciliation process will expand our own contributions to:

1. reduce disparity between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians;
2. elevate the visibility of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander expertise, excellence and contributions to society;
3. acknowledge and support the rights, languages and cultures of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities;
4. tackle racism; and
5. promote equity outcomes for all Australians.

This RAP aligns to, and is supportive of, the imperatives set out for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities through the following:

1. Monash University Act, 2009;
2. Impact 2030: Monash University Strategic Plan 2021-2030;
3. Monash Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Framework 2019 – 2030;
5. Monash Environmental, Social and Governance Statement 2021 - 2025;
7. Closing the Gap targets, Council of Australian Governments (COAG);
8. The Office of Prime Minister and Cabinet’s Indigenous Student Support Program; and Working Group

The RAP Working Group has primary governance responsibility for the RAP development and implementation. This Governance structure is designed to provide oversight of the RAP at a senior level. The Working Group is responsible for ensuring that the plan meets its aims and objectives and for overseeing implementation by the University. It is also responsible for ensuring that milestones are satisfactorily achieved, and stakeholders are consulted and kept informed of future changes.

The Working Group will review the recommendations and actions of the William Cooper Institute team and be responsible for approval of all planning documents. The RAP Working Group will continue to provide guidance and advice to the Vice-Chancellor’s Executive Implementation and Oversight Committee (VCEIO), the Indigenous Advisory Council (IAC), the Indigenous Engagement Working Group, to actively monitor the RAP’s implementation.
