

Olamide Ayoade-Alabi

olaa993@yahoo.com | +61 422 522 611

<https://olamideayoade-alabi.com/>

Languages: English (Native), French (Basic)

Education

PhD Economics
Monash University

Melbourne, Australia
Conferred: November 2020

MSc Economics
University of Utah

Salt Lake City, Utah, USA
Conferred : May 2015

BSc (Hons) Economics
University of Hull

Hull, UK
Conferred : July 2013

Research Papers

- “Using Synthetic Control Methods to estimate the impact of trade liberalization on structural adjustment in Africa” (Working Paper)
- “The effect of trade openness and labor market rigidity on self-employment in Africa” (Working Paper. Accepted to be presented at the CSAE conference March 2020)
- “Estimating GDP figures for 17 African countries from 1850 – 1950”(Working Paper)
- Ayoade-Alabi, O., 2015. Can crude oil be used as a fuel towards sustainable development in Nigeria? The University of Utah.
-

Scholarships and Awards

- 2017 - 2020 Monash Graduate Scholarship
- 2017 -2020 Monash Departmental Scholarship
- 2010 – 2013 Merit Scholarship, University of Hull

Work Experience

Tutor Economics Department
Monash University

February 2018 - November 2020
Melbourne, Australia

- ECC 1100 Principles of Macroeconomics (Semester one 2018)
- ECF 5953 Economics (Semester two 2019)
- ECF 2731 Managerial Economics (Semester one 2019)
- ECF 1100 Microeconomics (Semester two 2019)
- ECC3690 International Economics

Analyst*Goldman Sachs*

2015 – 2016

Salt Lake City, Utah

- I worked in the Global Investment Research division as a part of the Data Management & Analytics team. My team was responsible for verifying, monitoring, and analyzing company financial and operational data in GIR's proprietary database.

Intern: Tax Department*KPMG*

2012

Lagos, Nigeria

- Analyzed different client's yearly tax statements to ensure that tax payments were made regularly and to find out years in which tax refunds are due
- Helped process clients tax refunds and met with Tax regulatory organizations to help negotiate tax payments of clients
- Made memorandum of tax meetings between clients and KPMG, between KPMG and tax regulation organization's in Nigeria and within the KPMG department

Intern Consultant*Deloitte*

2011

Lagos, Nigeria

- Evaluated client spending in order to audit firms' account and identified areas of overspending
- Matched payments of clients to identify and reduce debtors
- Advised the firm to hire debt collectors in order to reduce bad debt
- Attended meetings with client's representatives, took notes and submitted a memorandum after