Content Enquiries
Curriculum and Publications

Scope
All approved university courses and units offered in a given academic year across all faculties and campuses.

Purpose
To define and regulate the publication of course and unit information for all enrolled Monash students.

PROCEDURE STATEMENT

The Handbook can be produced in one or several volumes, in electronic form and/or printed documents as determined by the business owner/s in conjunction with the publications committee/s. Descriptions of courses* and units in the Handbook will follow a standard format as outlined below, excepting that additional and/or optional fields for course and unit entries may be included by general agreement between faculties, the business owner/s and the publications committee/s.

These procedures explain the standard format required for undergraduate and graduate/postgraduate Handbook publications only. The items in these procedures do not apply to the Handbook for Doctoral and MPhil Degrees.

* References to course structures and requirements is taken to also include ‘areas of study’ such as majors/minors, specialisations, streams, branches etc., which may or may not be published within or in addition to a given course entry.

Step 1. Structure of handbook
Each year the Handbook will include:

- an introduction to the publication
- an information section for each faculty
- an entry for every active course offered for new student intake in the current year, with one entry per course code and no more than one course code per entry*
- details of units offered in the current year

 This may include units not offered where it is deemed necessary students be aware of future-year offerings for purposes of course progression planning.

Responsibility
Step 2. Course entry content

2.1. Each course entry must include the following:

- course name and code (as appears in Callista), CRICOS code, and approved abbreviation
- total credit points required to achieve the award
- course length (in years) – full-time and/or part-time as applicable
- managing faculty
- study mode/s and course location/s
- a broad description of the course
- overall course objectives/learning outcomes
- details of the course structure and legal requirements
- other additional and/or optional information as is relevant to the specific course.

2.2. Course entries will not include:

- marketing or promotional information
- fee information (excepting that if it is essential for some purpose to mention a fee, reference can be made to another publication or a website)
- entry requirements for awards other than honours courses.

Responsibility

Faculty editors
Handbook business owner/s

Step 3. Unit entry content

Each unit entry must include the following:

- unit code, title and managing faculty
- credit points, highest SCA band and EFTSL (can be excluded where appropriate from research awards)
- offering details (campus, semester, study mode)*
- synopsis (can be excluded from any hard copy Handbook produced)
- objectives
- assessment details (the percentage proportion of in-class assessment and examination as a minimum)
- contact hours and attendance requirements
- prerequisites, co-requisites and prohibitions
- chief examiner
- Passport and/or administrative category where relevant.
Monash University Procedure

 Administrative units may be exempted from publishing certain of these fields.

* Units published but not offered for purposes of course progression planning will not display this.

Additional fields may include fieldwork, and off-campus attendance requirements.

Responsibility
Faculty editors
Handbook business owner/s

Step 4. Curriculum data collection, storage and use

The University-wide curriculum data management system is the definitive and authoritative source of data for curriculum publications. All required information is to be entered into, and extracted from this database for publications, as instructed by or provided by the business owner of the curriculum data management system.

Responsibility
Faculty editors
Curriculum Data Management System business owner

Step 5. Responsibilities
