MONASH ARTS

We consistently rank in the top 1 per cent of universities worldwide for humanities and social sciences, so you’ll be graduating from a course recognised by employers as being exceptional.

You’ll be learning from leading experts who are helping to solve some of the world’s most pressing issues, from border control to international development. And while they may have international reputations, our academics are renowned for being approachable, friendly and keen for you to succeed.

Flexibility and choice are also reasons students tell us they prefer Monash Arts. Flexible course structures mean you can make the most of the amazing opportunities on offer.

You can complete a comprehensive degree with the Bachelor of Arts, allowing you to tailor your course to suit your own needs and interests as they develop. The outcome will be a degree that’s unique to you.

Or you can select one of our specialist degrees, choosing from the Bachelor of Criminology, Bachelor of Global Studies, Bachelor of Media Communication, Bachelor of Politics, Philosophy and Economics or Bachelor of Music.

Along the way you’ll shape your own future as you explore experiences such as studying overseas, internships, field trips, double degrees, 40 areas of study, and leadership, career and volunteering programs.

UNDERSTANDING THE TERMINOLOGY

Comprehensive degree
In Monash Arts, this refers to the Bachelor of Arts. A comprehensive degree gives you the choice and flexibility to select your units (subjects), and normally requires you to complete 24 units, including specific requirements such as completing an Arts major and an Arts minor.

Specialist degree
In Monash Arts, this refers to the Bachelor of Criminology, Bachelor of Global Studies, Bachelor of Media Communication, Bachelor of Politics, Philosophy and Economics and Bachelor of Music. You need to complete 24 units, including specific requirements such as completing a specialisation. In a specialist degree, you start studying your chosen area of study straight away.

Units
Sometimes called a subject, units are usually worth six credit points. You need to complete 144 credit points in a three-year degree. Some second-year and third-year units are worth 12 credit points, and are counted as two units – these units have a higher workload.

Areas of study
An ‘area of study’ is a field of knowledge – for example, literary studies or sociology. Areas of study are sometimes called ‘disciplines’. See page 26.

Major
A major is eight units from the same area of study. In the Bachelor of Arts you can choose to study one or two majors, and you don’t have to decide on your major straight away.

Minor
A minor is four units from the same area of study.

Specialisation
An Arts specialisation consists of 6-12 units and is a requirement of any of the specialist degrees.

Elective
There are eight units of free electives in your Arts course which can be taken from Arts, Business, IT or Science.
TOP 1% IN THE WORLD
We’re ranked in the top 1 per cent of universities worldwide for humanities and social sciences.

UNIQUE OVERSEAS STUDY EXPERIENCES
We provide overseas study and international immersion experiences for more students than any other university in Australia. See page 6.

INTERNSHIPS AND INDUSTRY PARTNERSHIPS
All of our courses offer internship experiences either in Australia or overseas. Build your networks and unlock a world of career opportunities. See page 9.

DOUBLE DEGREE OPTIONS
You’re spoilt for choice with more than 40 double degree combinations to select from.

BACHELOR’S/MASTER’S PROGRAM
Plan ahead and graduate with a bachelor’s and a master’s degree in four years. See page 14.

BE SUPPORTED
There are many ways to engage with university life and be supported. Our Peers, Ambassadors, Leaders (PAL) and First in the Family (FIF) programs are just two examples of how we support you. See page 4.
A new world of opportunity.

University life is the start of an adventure, and with Monash Arts you’ll be inspired by the people you meet, the discoveries you make and the places you can go.

We want you to get the most out of your studies while enjoying everything university life has to offer, and there are many ways to get involved.

Develop your leadership and interpersonal skills with Monash clubs and societies and be career-ready by the time you finish your course. Embrace the University’s vibrant campus culture with live music performances and a weekly campus market during semester.

With more than 100 clubs and societies to choose from, there’s sure to be one that suits you. Get active with Monash Sport, work on your fire-twirling skills with the Juggling and Fire-twirling Club, harvest your own fresh vegetables with the Monash Permaculture Society, or live out your Harry Potter dreams leading the Monash Muggles to victory in a game of quidditch.

Late-night library hours and free intercampus shuttle buses make it even easier to fit studying into your schedule. You can build a professional portfolio of published work in student magazines and media channels Lot’s Wife, Esperanto and Mojo to show potential employers.

Unique to the Faculty of Arts is the highly successful Peers, Ambassadors, Leaders (PAL) program, which offers support and networking opportunities for students while building skills in peer support, mentoring, teamwork and leadership.

Our First in the Family program recognises the unique challenges faced by students who are the first of their generation to attend university. We offer support through social events, as well as academic and social mentoring to help give you a head start towards achieving your goals.

LEARNING ABROAD

Amazing experiences beyond the classroom.

Monash Arts has the most extensive overseas study opportunities of any university in Australia. Whether you go for two weeks or two semesters, there’s a program to suit your interests, curiosities and study needs.

We have partnerships with more than 100 universities worldwide, study centres in Prato, Italy, and South Africa, and a campus in Malaysia. And if you’re a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Global Studies student, you’ll have access to the Global Immersion Guarantee.

HOW STUDYING OVERSEAS CAN GIVE YOU AN EDGE

There are many benefits to studying overseas. Research has shown that students with international study experience:

• have better grades throughout their degree
• are more employable once they graduate
• earn more throughout their career.

You’ll expand your worldview through experiencing different cultures and ways of doing things. You’ll build your self-confidence, and be more adaptable and independent. You’ll also develop skills in effective communication, collaboration and time management.
WHERE CAN I GO?

Arts study tours
Programs vary in length from two to four weeks. They’re taught intensively so you can complete a full unit in that time. Another bonus is that they run between semesters, which means you can continue to travel after completing your program and you could finish your degree sooner.

The programs are as varied as the humanities and social sciences themselves, from languages to politics and history, and the experiences for each are unique. Some examples of what you could do include:
- creating journalism stories while joining the Engineers Without Borders study tour of Cambodia
- undertaking archaeological fieldwork and excavation in Italy
- jamming with jazz masters in New York
- engaging with cultural identities while considering the key challenges they face in Cuba today
- mastering Mandarin in China
- comparing crime and social control in the US or Asia
- unravelling genocide in Europe.

Arts Semester in Prato
Make the Monash Prato Centre your European study base. Close to Florence in the picturesque landscape of Tuscany, the Monash Prato Centre is located in the beautiful 18th-century Palazzo Vaj right in the centre of Prato.

Against this historic backdrop, the Arts Semester in Prato program has been carefully designed to make the most of everything Prato has to offer, including the opportunity to learn from some of the most renowned international scholars in their field.

The program is flexible, immersive and enriching. Divided into three-by-four-week intensive blocks, you can study for the full 12 weeks or take the option of including some travel time and study for four or eight weeks. Some examples of what you can study include:
- intensive Italian language
- cultural diversity in contemporary Europe
- the Renaissance in Florence
- global connections: understanding cultural literacy.

Intensive language programs
Studying overseas as part of your language major is a great way to immerse yourself in your chosen language and culture. Monash Arts offers a variety of faculty-led and endorsed language programs available to language students for credit.

Intercampus exchange to Monash Malaysia
Study at our international teaching location in Malaysia. Established in 1998 in Bandar Sunway (18 kilometres from Kuala Lumpur), Monash Malaysia is Monash’s first international campus. Intercampus exchange to Monash Malaysia is available to all Monash Australia students, provided they have room within their course.

Exchange to a partner institution
An exchange program involves studying with one of our partner universities around the world. You can go on exchange for one or two semesters. Financial assistance is available and there are no extra tuition fees. You can choose from more than 100 universities in 30 countries.

Study Abroad
If your preferred overseas destination is not a Monash partner university, you can still choose to go there on Study Abroad. You’ll pay the host university’s tuition fees for the time you’re there, but you’re still able to access financial assistance to support your travel.

Find out more at arts.monash.edu/learning-abroad

GLOBAL IMMERSION GUARANTEE
The Monash Arts Global Immersion Guarantee (GIG) is a ground-breaking initiative that will enable you to explore first-hand the relationships between society, technology and the environment. It’s a two-week, funded study trip for all first-year Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Global Studies students to one of five international destinations – China, India, Indonesia, Italy or Malaysia.

GIG is about innovating and putting your degree into practice by responding to some of the world’s biggest challenges. Engage with people and organisations already working on these issues, and you’ll have the opportunity to gain an understanding of the complexities and challenges involved in implementing sustainable and innovative solutions — all skills your future employers will look for.

China
Travelling between two cities (Beijing, Suzhou or Shanghai), you’ll be immersed in the work of China’s businesses and universities that are focused on advancing innovative and creative solutions to some of the world’s major challenges.

India
Based at the TATA Institute of Social Sciences in Mumbai, you’ll navigate the environmental challenges faced by India’s biggest and most populated city.

Indonesia
You’ll travel to two Indonesian islands to understand how different communities can balance economic development and environmental sustainability.

Italy
Based at the Monash Prato Centre, you’ll be exposed to experts working to mitigate the impact that different industries have on Italy’s natural environment.

Malaysia
Based at the Monash Malaysia campus in Kuala Lumpur, you’ll examine a number of sustainability challenges that are confronting contemporary Malaysia.

BE CAREER READY

Build a portfolio of skills
By studying humanities, social sciences or the performing arts, you’ll gain a thorough grounding in the key skills sought by employers, including agility, lateral thinking and improvisation; skills that surpass automation. These skills cross discipline boundaries and are relevant to all careers.

Written and verbal communication
You’ll develop strong skills in communication that enable you to express your ideas clearly, form an opinion, argue persuasively and think logically.

Interpersonal skills
You’ll be able to work effectively in a team, negotiate outcomes, build rapport and make decisions.

Problem-solving and critical thinking
You’ll learn how to evaluate complex information, analyse the causes of a problem and suggest alternative solutions.

Research
You’ll become a productive researcher, synthesising information from different resources in order to answer complicated questions.

Leadership
Decision-making, time management and goal-setting are qualities you’ll develop during your course.

Interdisciplinary thinking and training
This means analysing problems from several different perspectives and arriving at a solution through recognising how each of the alternative approaches influences the others.

Career options
Our graduates go into as many career paths as there are majors. For example, there are linguists helping to improve the quality of life for the hearing impaired; anthropologists using their skills to enhance the productivity of large organisations; social entrepreneurs helping people live more sustainably; and criminologists working on policy change in criminal justice. The opportunities are endless. For more information about career options, see our areas of study section on pages 26-46.
Monash Arts has a dynamic internships program where you can work in an organisation as part of your studies and get credit towards your course.

You could be working with a member of state parliament, building a school in a developing nation, working behind the scenes at a television station, or as a researcher with a non-profit organisation. The opportunities are endless.

Advantages of doing an internship

- You'll gain valuable work experience that counts towards your degree.
- It can add more meaning to your study because it gives you the chance to apply what you're learning in class to a real-world context.
- It'll provide valuable networking opportunities – you’ll link up with people who can give you advice and introduce you to groups and networks.
- You can do an internship overseas and build your intercultural skills at the same time.

Places where our students have interned

- Global Poverty Project in New York
- The State Museum of Majdanek in Poland
- Mango Communications (communications and public relations)
- Live Performance Australia (policy and research)
- Channel 7
- Johannesburg Holocaust and Genocide Centre
- Ernst & Young
- Oxfam
- Australian Embassy in Rome
- Melbourne Writers Festival
- American Chamber of Commerce
- Korean Consulate-General
- Penang House of Music in Malaysia
- Creative Innovation Global (events and marketing)
- Melbourne Festival.

BACHELOR OF ARTS

Our world needs graduates who thrive in an era of uncertainty and change. In the Monash Bachelor of Arts you’ll cultivate your intellect, foster your passions and develop your capacity to ask the questions and find the solutions required to transform our world. We support you to become enterprising and passionate advocates for social change.

The Bachelor of Arts is designed to give you maximum flexibility and choice. You can choose from more than 40 areas of study to build a genuinely transformative experience. The course is built around deeply enriching experiences, and via your elective units, offers you four signature elements through which to develop your unique graduate profile. You can choose from local and international internships, professional engagements and entrepreneurial opportunities, and the choice of more than 50 global immersion programs, preparing you to live and work in complex and culturally diverse environments, while building a community of like-minded peers.

The major
Eight units make up your major. These units are from the same area of study – for example, anthropology, French studies or politics. There are many units to choose from but there are also some compulsory units. These are called gateway, cornerstone and capstone units, which have been designed to help you consolidate your learning so you can get the most out of your major.

• Gateway: a first-year foundation unit introducing you to the major.
• Cornerstone: a second-year unit that focuses on making sure you have a solid grasp of your major.
• Capstone: a third-year unit where you demonstrate advanced knowledge of your major. This could be a supervised research project or an internship with an industry partner.

The minor
Four units make up your minor. They’re all from the same area of study, but this will be different to your major. There’s one, sometimes two, gateway units in your minor, but no cornerstone or capstone.

Arts electives and signature elements
You’ll complete four units of Arts electives of which a minimum of two units will be from the signature elements options:

Global immersion: Broaden your knowledge and life experience by participating in the GIG, one of our other short study trips or a semester-long program.

Intercultural expertise: Learn to recognise your own cultural values and biases, and build skills to thrive in globalised work places and communities.

Professional experience: Through industry internships and placements, create networks and skills for your career development.

Innovation capability: Cultivate an innovation mindset as you develop your creative and enterprising abilities.

Free electives
These are eight units that can be from Arts or another Monash course. You can structure these to suit your interests – for example, you could add a second major which gives you two areas of expertise.

Taking advantage of the flexible structure
While there are aspects of the course structure that are fixed, i.e. you must complete a major, a minor and four other Arts units, there’s still plenty of flexibility. That’s because we want you to take advantage of the choice and opportunities we offer, but it also means you can design the course to suit your needs and interests as they evolve. Some examples of what we mean by ‘flexible’ are:

• you can decide your major in second-year
• you can start your minor in second-year
• you can use the eight free electives to make up a second major, two minors, a minor plus electives, or just electives. These can be from Arts, Business, IT or Science.

Studying an Arts degree gave me the freedom to pursue a broad range of interests outside of my major, from sociology and film studies, to philosophy and history. My minor in Italian studies was enhanced by the opportunity to take part in a study tour at the Monash Prato Centre in Italy – a truly immersive learning experience. But my public relations internship with PPR Australia was the most rewarding aspect of my course. It provided me with an excellent foundation of skills and the confidence to launch my career in communications.

BACHELOR OF ARTS DOUBLE DEGREES

Multiply your opportunities and become an expert in two fields by choosing a double degree course. This allows you to study towards two different bachelor’s degrees at the same time, providing you with more career flexibility and opportunities.

A double degree doesn’t mean double the work; in fact, it takes two years less to complete than if you studied the courses separately. A typical double degree takes four years and comprises 32 units, 16 from each course. Some double degrees are longer – for example, the Bachelor of Laws (Honours) and Bachelor of Arts combination takes five years.

There are many benefits to choosing a double degree. You’ll broaden your knowledge across two different fields, diversify your skill base and expand your career opportunities. For example, with a second language you could work in multiple countries; with journalism skills you could communicate scientific findings to a broader audience; or with knowledge in international relations you could expand your career options as a lawyer. A double degree may also fit the profession and field you want to work in – for example, working as an international development lawyer (Arts/Laws), a scientific journalist (Arts/Science), an international diplomat (Arts/Business) or a music critic (Arts/Music).
DIPLOMA OF LIBERAL ARTS/
DIPLOMA OF LANGUAGES

A diploma allows you to take additional studies in Arts while completing any Monash course.

What is a diploma?
A diploma is an additional course of study taken alongside your bachelor’s degree. It’s the equivalent of eight units, which make up a major. You’ll cover first, second and third year units. Diplomas are taught alongside your degree and add an extra year of study.

Who’s eligible?
Students from any faculty who are studying a bachelor’s single or double degree.

Why study a diploma?
By studying a Diploma of Liberal Arts or a Diploma of Languages, you will:
* Diversify and deepen your skills and knowledge
* Expand your career options
* Continue with an area of study you have a keen interest in, or try something completely different.

Diploma of Liberal Arts
Expand your studies by choosing any Arts area of study available as a major, except for languages.

Diploma of Languages
This diploma allows you to study Chinese, French, German, Indonesian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Spanish or Ukrainian. There are different entry levels so you can commence as a beginner in the language or with a language background.

Applying for entry
You can apply for entry to either of these diplomas only after you’ve accepted your offer into your main course at Monash.

Broaden your career options
Students choose to study Monash Arts diplomas to enhance their future career opportunities. Law students hone their courtroom skills through theatre and performance, international business students gain a competitive edge by studying a language, biomedical students increase their career choices through journalism, and Arts students add greater depth to their major through a complementary field.
BACHELOR’S/MASTER’S PROGRAM

With Arts you can graduate with a bachelor’s and a master’s degree in just four years. After completing two years of your bachelor’s course, and providing you’re a high-achieving student, you can take master’s-level units as your electives in third-year. You then complete the rest of your master’s course in fourth-year. You can match your Arts bachelor’s degree with a master’s degree in:

• Applied Linguistics
• Bioethics
• Communications and Media Studies
• Cultural and Creative Industries
• International Development Practice
• International Sustainable Tourism Management
• International Relations
• Interpreting and Translation Studies
• Journalism
• Public Policy
• Strategic Communications Management.

By taking advantage of a bachelor’s double degree you can:
• refine your skills and knowledge in a field you’re really interested in
• make yourself more employable with two degrees
• save time (six to 12 months) and reduce fee debt.

The benefits
At Monash Arts we’re committed to providing you with as many opportunities and as much flexibility as possible to allow you to maximise your study options. The Bachelor’s/Master’s program allows you to:
• Fast track your studies and graduate with an undergraduate and postgraduate degree in just four years – instead of five
• Take advantage of the most extensive bachelor’s/master’s offering in Australia
• Make yourself more employable with two degrees and specialist knowledge
• Save time and save on fees.

DID YOU KNOW?
Bachelor’s/Master’s program students have access to both undergraduate and graduate level Arts internships offered by 600+ providers across Australia and globally.

I see the master’s degree as a necessary qualification in an age of credential inflation and highly competitive globalised job markets. The master’s qualification also opens up networking opportunities within Victorian and Australian tourism industries, which are invaluable in such a competitive job market.”

BRENDAN DOMBROWSKY
Bachelor of Arts/Master of Tourism student

* A master's degree is a more advanced degree, usually taken after completing a bachelor's degree.

BACHELOR OF CRIMINOLOGY

Improve responses to crime and criminality.

Criminology is the study of crime and social control. Crime – how we define it, how we understand its causes and the ways we respond to it – provides a window into society’s challenges, values and aspirations. This course offers students a world-leading program delivered by a team of outstanding teachers and researchers.

You’ll consider the local, national and global aspects of crime and justice, and become familiar with a range of lenses for understanding and assessing the impact of society’s changing responses to crime and justice. You’ll gain an understanding of victimisation and perpetration, inequality and its impacts, and approaches to understanding crime and difference.

Throughout the course you’ll develop your capabilities via the key themes of expert knowledge, global reach and focus, and collaboration and innovation.

Expert knowledge
With its own advisory board, the Bachelor of Criminology brings into play the advice and dynamic perspectives of industry experts, meaning our students benefit from to-the-minute insights into industry developments.

You’ll learn about crime committed by individuals, groups, organisations and states, and the mechanisms of the criminal justice system, including police, courts and corrections. Options are available to develop knowledge of specific criminal concerns, such as sexual violence, gendered violence, punishment, criminal justice processes, marginalisation, drugs, cybercrime, risk and surveillance, victimisation and perpetration, youth crime, and crime prevention and transnational justice practices.

Global reach and focus
Throughout the course you’ll be challenged to apply abstract knowledge to real-world problems of crime and justice, and develop solutions. You’ll also have the opportunity to travel internationally and meet criminal justice experts from across the world through a selection of exclusive field trips.

The field trips offer a truly immersive learning experience to complement the academic knowledge you’ll gain in class, allowing you to engage in context and gain a genuine understanding of the human realities behind the study of criminology.

Collaboration and innovation
Through multiple opportunities for engagement with industry, you’ll gain the experience needed to be workplace ready. In the professional project unit, you’ll work closely with our industry partners, opening up new pathways and opportunities for your career, and capping off your Criminology study by bringing together your knowledge and skills in your final year. The professional project features real-life scenarios, and your work will be assessed by both academics and industry.

Further opportunities and internships are available to you through Arts internships, both in Australia and around the world, so you can get hands-on experience while you gain study credit.

Double degrees
The Bachelor of Criminology can be paired with the:
- Bachelor of Information Technology
- Bachelor of Laws (Honours).

INTERNATIONAL STUDY OPPORTUNITIES
You’ll also have opportunities to travel internationally to meet criminal justice experts through a selection of exclusive field trips. Study tours include:
- Crime and criminal justice in Asia
- Comparative criminology in the US
- Human rights and criminal justice in Europe.

If you aspire to become a leader in creating social change, then the Bachelor of Global Studies is the course for you. You’ll learn how to critically analyse global challenges facing cultures and communities around the world, and how to apply your knowledge to these challenges and devise imaginative and well-informed solutions to help solve them.

The Bachelor of Global Studies has many exciting features, including core units on leadership development, project-based learning, internship placements with industries and organisations who are leading advocates for social change around the world, a broad range of electives that train you to think across different disciplines, an overseas study component, and the option of doing a double degree with Laws (Honours), Science or Commerce.

You may choose to focus your learning in Global Health and Disease; Environment, Cities and Sustainability; Crisis, Conflict and Disaster; or Commerce, Technology and Consumption.

Overseas study
Integral to this course is overseas study that can be completed across a full semester or taken intensively. You could take units offered at a Monash international location, join in one of our many study tours, or study at one of our prestigious partner universities. It’s compulsory to take at least three overseas study units, but you can take more if you want. With partnerships with more than 100 universities worldwide, our study centre in Prato, Italy, and a campus in Malaysia, you’re spoilt for choice.

Global Immersion Guarantee
Being a student in the Bachelor of Global Studies means you’ll have access to the Monash Arts Global Immersion Guarantee – an opportunity to spend two weeks studying in China, India, Indonesia, Italy or Malaysia, with airfares and accommodation covered as part of your degree. For more information, visit arts.monash.edu/global-immersion-guarantee/

Engaging with industry
With its own advisory board, the Bachelor of Global Studies is in a unique position to draw on the advice and perspectives of industry experts. The board consists of professionals from diverse backgrounds with direct links to business, government and the social sector. They provide vital guidance, advice and feedback to inform our program development and to ensure the course delivers the best outcomes for you.

Double degrees
The Bachelor of Global Studies can be taken as a double degree with the:
- Bachelor of Commerce
- Bachelor of Laws (Honours)
- Bachelor of Science.

Double degrees allow you to combine two areas of interest and gain expertise in both. As a graduate you’ll have greater career flexibility, and because the double degree is completed in a shorter time than two single degrees, you’ll be saving time and money.

Internships
There are many opportunities within the course to take an internship, where you can apply your knowledge to a professional work environment and gain valuable experience and insights into the ‘real-world’ environment. Internships are available with a wide range of organisations and count as credit towards your degree.

SPECIALISATIONS

Cultural competence

Extend your studies of leadership, culture and globalisation by focusing on communication across cultural borders. By studying one of eight internationally important languages — Chinese, French, German, Indonesian, Italian, Japanese, Korean or Spanish — you’ll deepen your cross-cultural skills and knowledge. All languages are available for beginners through to those with proficiency. You’ll also study topics such as managing intercultural communication, and the skills you build will enable you to apply your knowledge in real-world contexts.

Human rights

In the era of globalisation, one of the most important concepts in international affairs is human rights. What are human rights? Are human rights culturally relative? How can human rights be justified? You’ll learn how human rights help to address issues such as global poverty, unequal access to medicine, warfare, terrorism, children’s rights, humanitarian intervention, torture, surveillance and more.

International relations

What are the dynamics of global politics and economics? Gain an understanding of the relationships between political institutions, international organisations, and governmental and non-governmental actors. Grasp evidence-based explanations to study war and conflict, development, financial and other crises at a global level. You’ll undertake in-depth study of topics of contemporary significance such as terrorism and political violence, global governance, international security and foreign policy.

International studies

In order to be competitive in the international marketplace of products, ideas and knowledge, we need to understand how people experience different cultures. International studies develops this understanding by exploring the issues and events that have shaped and continue to shape our world. You’ll examine such diverse topics as the role of cities as drivers of change, migrant and refugee experiences, power and poverty, and tradition and popular culture. In doing so, you’ll develop a solid understanding of European and Asian cultural studies, and of networks of relations between Europe, Asia and Australia.

Three core units on ‘Leadership for social change’:

These units are exclusive to the Bachelor of Global Studies and are taken over three years. You’ll learn about forms of leadership, drivers of social change and how to apply your learning in practical and professional real-life contexts.

Classes are mainly workshops where you’ll engage in problem-based learning and develop skills in creativity, teamwork, cross-cultural collaboration, critical thinking, self-learning and analytical writing.

Twelve units from one of the following specialisations:

- Cultural competence
- Human rights
- International relations
- International studies

Eight free elective units:

With these units you can study subjects from Arts or from another area such as Information Technology, Science or Business. You could also use these electives to do an internship or study overseas.
CAREER OPTIONS
The skills you’ll gain with the Bachelor of Media Communication creates opportunities in a diverse range of careers – some of which may not even exist yet. Options include:
- Journalist
- Media researcher
- Broadcaster
- Filmmaker
- TV producer
- TV presenter
- Advertising creative
- Copywriter
- Digital marketer
- Content producer
- Digital archiving
- Music producer for gaming
- Social media writer.

COURSE CODE: A2002
CRICOS CODE: 093854F

A degree for today’s media world, the Bachelor of Media Communication addresses the growing demand for graduates with new and diverse skills in communication, and a critical understanding of how media influences our lives.

You’ll be part of a new generation of thinkers and future-driven media and communication professionals who’ll challenge convention and devise solutions that’ll take us into the next century.

Graduate with a portfolio that will make you stand out
You’ll develop your practical experience and work-ready skills to build a portfolio of real work throughout your course. This could be projects such as a documentary, short film or digital marketing campaign, depending on your interest area. The result is tangible pieces of work you can take out and show to potential employers.

What you’ll study
The course comprises core units, a specialisation and electives. You can tailor it to suit your interest by choosing your specialisation and electives. In your final year you can do either an internship or a professional project.

Double degrees
The Bachelor of Media Communication can be paired with the:
- Bachelor of Business
- Bachelor of Business Administration
- Bachelor of Design
- Bachelor of Marketing.

Internship
If you’re interested in gaining valuable work experience, you can apply for an internship through our extensive network of industry partners within Australia and around the world. The internship runs in the final year of your course. It’ll give you the opportunity to build networks and make contacts for your career development.

Free electives
There are eight free electives in the course. That means you’ll have the flexibility to take units from another discipline within Arts (such as politics or a language) or from another faculty (such as Business, IT or Science). These electives will complement your specialisation and add diversity to your skill set, making you stand out from your peers.

Media challenges
This unit addresses the great media challenges of our time. Learn how to critically analyse and think strategically about how to tackle today’s problems, as well as those that lie ahead.

Communicating in the digital era
Become proficient in areas such as video production, broadcasting, news reporting, advertising and social media. Learn to combine critical skills in digital literacy with practical skills in media production to develop your overall digital knowledge.

Media communication practice labs
With our new purpose-built media labs, you’ll have the opportunity to experience what it’s like to work in a professional media environment right on campus. Experiment with different kinds of technology — from working in live and post-production TV studios, or the latest radio broadcast facilities.

Professional placement
In your final year you’ll have the opportunity to bring together your in-depth knowledge and skills with either an internship or professional project.

SPECIALISATIONS
There are four specialisations to choose from. If you’re not sure which to pursue, you can start with two specialisations in first-year and make a decision in second-year.

Journalism
Make the news and make stories that matter. Spanning digital, audio, video and print media, this specialisation gives you the sharp and creative skills required to excel in a rewarding journalism career. Gain expertise in bringing together journalism practice, theory and empirical research, with advanced skills in research, writing and communication for professional practice. You’ll grasp all production technologies using the celebrated Monash Media Lab, and realise the ethical principles in journalism that form an essential component of a democratic society.

Media
You’ll become a true media expert in today’s fast-evolving world, building skills and knowledge in media research, management, communication and policy. You’ll examine digital and social media, and the ways they’ve transformed broadcasting, print media and other more traditional media forms. You’ll gain in-depth knowledge of media studies as a discipline, and develop skills in media analysis that have applications across a wide range of professional contexts — from social media strategy in organisations to media management and communication, and media policy.

Public relations
You’ll learn how to research, develop, apply then evaluate communication strategies. You’ll understand the importance of the management of stakeholder relationships and reputation, acquire skills in public opinion analysis, learn to identify and manage organisational issues, and develop a crisis management plan.

This course also provides you with the skills required to research, plan and implement a strategic public relations campaign — from objectives, stakeholder identification, and strategies and tactics, to budgeting and evaluation. You’ll gain an understanding of how globalisation and new media impacts public relations practices, and learn about the legal and ethical frameworks for the profession.

The next step will be producing content for global and local audiences across different media platforms. You’ll have the opportunity to work with real clients where you’ll gain insights into ethical communication practice as well as the skills needed for a professional career in communication.

Screen
Screen industries, technologies and cultures are changing faster than ever. This specialisation gives you the knowledge to understand these transformations, navigating how film, television and newer screen formats have led to and function within contemporary media ecologies.

You’ll study an extensive range of units covering historical, analytical and practical approaches to screen content and formats from around the world. You’ll look at Australian, Asian and European film culture through to Hollywood and its institutions. You’ll examine the power and influence screen has to share stories, and its ability to influence and change society.

In this, you’ll consider current academic debates concerning the shift from local to global and analogue to digital economies, and address issues relating to the representation of gender, race and class on screen. The screen specialisation also develops your practical video production skills relevant to a broad range of media platforms and screen cultures.
BACHELOR OF MUSIC

The Sir Zelman Cowen School of Music has one of the most comprehensive music programs in the country. We excel in classical, jazz and popular music performance. Our ethnomusicology and musicology programs are world-renowned, and we have vibrant programs in composition, improvisation and creative music technology.

In addition to our reputation, students choose to study with us because of the exceptional learning opportunities we provide. You’ll collaborate with international artists, learn from accomplished teaching staff, study and perform in New York and Prato, Italy, and perform to audiences across the country with an ensemble or orchestra.

How the course is structured
The course comprises 24 units. These units work through three themes and electives.

Themes
Music specialist study (six units)
Choose one of the following specialisations:
• Composition and music technology
• Ethnomusicology and musicology
• Music performance (classical or jazz)
• Popular music.

Music theory and ear training (four units)
These units integrate the development of aural skills with the theoretical understanding of music through listening, analysis, performance, notation and composition.

Music context study (six units)
Learn about music and music-making in a variety of cultural, historical, social and professional settings.

Electives
There are eight free electives that you can take from Music or from Arts, Business, IT or Science. For example, you could complement your studies with a language or subjects from Science or Business. Another option is to take up one of the many overseas study opportunities offered by the faculty.

Double degrees
The Bachelor of Music can be paired with the:
• Bachelor of Arts
• Bachelor of Commerce
• Bachelor of Education (Honours)
• Bachelor of Science
• Bachelor of Laws (Honours).

Other ways to study music in your course
You can include music in your Bachelor of Arts course as a major, a minor or use your free electives. If you’re studying another Monash course, you can use your electives to take non-practical music units. There’s a wide range of units to choose from and the opportunity to participate in ensembles (some of which are subject to audition).

Performance opportunities
Monash is renowned for its performance opportunities and we have a diverse range of small and large ensembles, including piano ensembles, choral groups (gospel, contemporary and classical), electronic laptop, new music, string sinfonia, wind symphony, funk, pop, Latin jazz, Gamelan, small jazz ensembles (including Australian jazz and Brazilian) as well as the Monash Art Ensemble and the Monash Academy Orchestra.

SPECIALISATIONS

Composition and music technology
Become a music creator of the future. In this specialisation you’ll develop skills in composition for acoustic and electronic instruments, song-writing and music for other media such as film and video games. You’ll have the opportunity to collaborate with performance students, write for visiting international artists and make your own recording projects. In addition to testing composition techniques in performance scenarios, you’ll learn how to engage with the variety of music technology in the industry for composing, recording, mixing, mastering, interactive music and software programming. Through our partnership with the Melbourne Electronic Sound Studio (MESS), you’ll have access to vintage electronic equipment, and the School provides an innovative studio and recording space. Our ongoing program of local, national and international visiting artists and workshops means you’ll create established contacts with industry and be prepared for global career opportunities.

Ethnomusicology and musicology
Study music in its social, historical and cultural contexts to investigate not only what music is, but why it exists, what it means, and how it shapes and impacts our world. You’ll study the music of different cultures, considering western classical and popular forms as well as those from Africa and Asia. You’ll investigate the role of music in society, music history, philosophical and aesthetic aspects of music, and performance practice. You’ll also explore the richness and scope of humanity’s interplay with musical expression, and broaden your knowledge of music and the integral role it plays within different cultures.

Music performance (classical or jazz improvisation)
Available to those with strong musical aptitude in classical or jazz performance, this specialisation offers you the rigour and richness required to put you on the path to professional music performance success. You’ll acquire an assured instrumental or vocal technique and perform in a variety of ensembles, in addition to solo work. There’s opportunity to take part in one of our study tours to New York or to the Monash Prato Centre in Italy, immersing yourself in international music and culture.

Popular music
Designed for popular music performers and creators of the future. In addition to developing practical performance skills and stagecraft, you’ll learn how to engage with a broad range of tools, performance styles and contexts representative of the popular music industry. You’ll start by developing techniques and practice strategies on your principal instrument or voice across a range of musical styles and repertoires. These skills will be applied in both solo and ensemble performance contexts in song-writing, live and recording environments. You’ll have the opportunity to conceptualise and create a live performance and recording project under the guidance of expert teachers within your chosen musical style and/or context. You’ll not only be connected with current industry practices and practitioners, you’ll also be encouraged to create new music, aligning with the School’s focus on developing the future of Australian music.
BACHELOR OF POLITICS, PHILOSOPHY AND ECONOMICS

Developed by Monash’s world-renowned Politics, Philosophy and Economics professors, this elite program is designed for deep thinkers who want to have a real impact.

After mastering the main ideas shaping our understanding of society, you’ll move on to study at the creative intersection between politics, philosophy and economics.

Having established an interdisciplinary academic foundation, you’ll engage with researchers and global leaders to hone the industry relevant abilities needed to thrive in a world defined by constant technological, environmental, political and population change.

You’ll graduate equipped with the intellectual and practical skills necessary to succeed in the century ahead.

Core units
The core units are designed to give you the ability to think critically about analysis, strategy and leadership.

Big ideas in politics, philosophy and economics
Engage with the big ideas that have shaped the world and the emerging ideas that seek to alter it. This unit introduces major ideas in Politics, Philosophy and Economics in an innovative inter-disciplinary learning environment. You’ll comprehend and analyse the inter-relationships between politics and the good life, freedom and the economy, and how we know what we know in order to behave ethically in a globalised society.

Strategic reasoning in politics, philosophy and economics
In this unit, you’ll refine structured and strategic ways of thinking about – and beyond – contemporary issues. Taking uncertainty and disruption as enduring elements of the contemporary social world, you’ll identify risks and opportunities and advance reasoned and evidence-based arguments to achieve concrete outcomes.

Politics, philosophy and economics in the world
In this year-long unit, you’ll apply your interdisciplinary knowledge to real-world scenarios in real-world locations. After completing this unit, you’ll have proven your ability to transition to high-functioning professional work by demonstrating your capacity to identify emerging issues and articulate ways beyond current impasses.

* All applicants must complete the online Supplementary Information form. Refer to arts.monash.edu/undergraduate-studies for full details and deadlines.
Specialisations

Politics
The study of politics addresses important questions about the nature of power, authority and governance: who gets what, when and how. Politics also encompasses the study of notions of freedom and agency in situations of social choice.

Philosophy
Philosophy is the study of fundamental ideas about the world we live in. It questions the nature of our world, asks what constitutes a good life in such a world, and asks what could be done to make it better. In this specialisation you’ll be introduced to areas central to philosophy, including political philosophy, ethics and logic.

Economic analysis
Economic analysis provides an advanced understanding of the theories explaining and analysing the production, distribution, and consumption of goods and services, with a focus on how individuals, households, firms and governments interact and how economies work.

Internships
Internships form a valuable element of this course, empowering you to gain real world experience and shape your professional networks before you’ve even graduated.

Overseas study
During your second year, you’ll have the chance to embark on a global study tour exclusive to this degree. This study tour traces the contours of the shifting economic and political power relations of the 21st century, from the Asia-Pacific to Europe. You’ll meet with and learn from academics and practitioners in the private and public sectors, gaining first-hand knowledge of the forces shaping the coming century and the diverse philosophical ideas emerging to interpret this change.

What your course will look like
You will be required to complete 12 Politics, Philosophy and Economics specialist units, 4 Analysis, Strategy and Leadership core units, and 8 free electives.

This degree allows students to comprehend our volatile and disruptive world. It explores the interplay between economics and politics, which generate philosophical questions such as ‘what obligations do we have to people unlike ourselves? You’ll be able to take those insights and approach problems in a holistic, creative and effective way. With this degree, you can turn your knowledge into actions that affect change.”

If you're studying a course other than the Bachelor of Arts, in most cases you can still take units from Arts areas of study by using your free electives. Or you could add a Diploma of Liberal Arts or Diploma of Languages.
ANTHROPOLOGY
Available as a major, minor or electives

About anthropology
Anthropology compares different ways of life. It explores an ‘insider’ perspective on human behaviour by asking questions such as what people do, why they do it, what they mean by it, what motivates them to do it and what they value in diverse societies and cultures.

Why study anthropology?
Anthropologists play an increasingly important role in the world. They observe the lives of others by living with them, sharing their experiences and discussing their perspectives. They specialise in analysing, documenting and creating social changes, and can assist in areas such as climate change, mining, social policy, Indigenous issues and development aid.

Anthropology and travel
Anthropologists travel extensively as part of their work, particularly to areas where their expertise is required for problem-solving. In the past year, Monash anthropologists have travelled to outback Australia, Indonesia, Iran, Timor-Leste and many other locations.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that go well with anthropology are:
- languages and linguistics
- Indigenous cultures and histories
- sociology
- ethnomusicology
- behavioural studies.

ACADEMIC AND PROFESSIONAL WRITING
Available as electives

About academic and professional writing
These units are designed to develop your academic and professional skills in language, writing and independent learning. There are practical exercises to develop your ability as a writer and further your understanding of professional communication.

Why study academic and professional writing?
These electives will give you skills that are highly valued by employers. You’ll advance your ability to prepare and deliver professional presentations, analyse the communication needs of different situations, write and edit documents, refine your grammar and learn how to structure your writing.

You’ll develop skills to help you plan for your career, to identify and respond to job opportunities, interviews and the transition from study to work. You’ll create a career plan based on an awareness of your skills and aspirations, and an understanding of career decision-making, managing change and developing resilience.

CAREER OPTIONS
- Advanced writing and presentation skills will be highly valued in any professional setting.

Clayton, Caulfield

CAREER OPTIONS
- International development
- Health and education
- Social research
- Indigenous affairs
- Conservation and heritage work
- Multicultural affairs
- Curating and collecting work
ARCHAEOLOGY AND ANCIENT HISTORY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About archaeology and ancient history
Archaeology and ancient history focuses on the ancient Mediterranean world and Indigenous Australian studies. You’ll examine historical texts, literature and material records – such as ancient sites, monuments, art and objects – to understand how people lived, how their culture developed and what their beliefs were.

Why study archaeology and ancient history?
You’ll learn about the first Australians and how their past contributes to our nation’s enduring heritage. You’ll investigate how the Mediterranean served as the birthplace of many influential ancient cultures, and you’ll become familiar with how these cultures have contributed to the intellectual development of the western world and what the results of their remarkable achievements are.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that go well with archaeology and ancient history are:
- history
- religious studies
- languages and linguistics
- sociology
- film and screen studies.

BEHAVIOURAL STUDIES

Available as a minor or electives

About behavioural studies
We explore human behaviour from social, cultural and psychological perspectives. We look at the theory and research to answer important questions around why humans behave the way they do and the social issues that arise as a consequence. This includes topics such as identity development, personality, terrorism, multiculturalism, alcohol and drug use, criminal behaviour, quality of life, social identity, social media and the internet.

Why choose behavioural studies?
You’ll develop insights into your own behaviour and motivations, as well as those of others, making you a socially aware and interpersonally effective employee. You’ll learn how to apply social psychological principles to important problems, such as domestic violence, cyberbullying, euthanasia, eating disorders, climate change and terrorism.

Complementary areas of study
Behavioural studies combines well with disciplines such as:
- human rights
- sociology
- criminology
- politics
- economics
- education
- marketing
- business management.
BIOETHICS
Available as a minor or electives

About bioethics
We draw on philosophy, science, sociology, history, economics, law and other disciplines in the attempt to answer some of society's most difficult and interesting questions around the ethics of things such as human cloning and enhancement, prolonging life, genetic discrimination, stem cell research, buying and selling human organs, and the publication of dangerous scientific discoveries.

Why study bioethics?
Bioethics is concerned with controversial topics that have profound implications for the future of humanity and society. It’s a field of study that’s relevant and important to everyone, and will promote development of all-purpose skills in reading, writing, oral expression and critical thinking.

The Monash Bioethics Centre
The Monash Bioethics Centre is widely acknowledged to be a world leader in bioethics research and teaching. It’s a World Health Organization (WHO) Collaborating Centre for Bioethics, making it one of just seven such centres worldwide.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that complement bioethics are:
• human rights
• sociology
• law
• journalism
• biology.

CHINESE STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About Chinese studies
We offer the most comprehensive Chinese language program available in Australia with six distinct entry points, from the introductory level (for students with no previous Chinese language ability) through to the Chinese as a first language stream. You’ll become a competent communicator in Mandarin (potentially to translator/interpreter level) while developing a rich insight into the culture, history and politics of China.

Why take Chinese studies?
China is a powerhouse of the world economy and is increasingly important to Australia within government and private sectors. Majoring in Chinese means you’ll be proficient in Mandarin, conversant in modern Chinese culture and will broaden your career options.

Overseas opportunities
You can take a semester-long program at pre-eminent universities in China or Taiwan, or do an intensive program in China over summer. There are generous scholarships provided by the Australian and Chinese governments.

Complementary areas of study
Chinese complements any area of study, but some that are popular include:
• international relations
• economics
• business
• education
• communications and media studies
• linguistics.

CAREER OPTIONS

BIOETHICS

- Life sciences
- Public health
- Journalism
- Law
- Public policy
- Healthcare

COMMUNICATIONS AND MEDIA STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

About communications and media studies
Whether it’s in our relationships, professions or political and cultural engagement, our lives are increasingly played out in and through media. And as the world becomes more connected, there’s an important need for people who can navigate the complexities of the dynamic media landscape.

Why study communications and media studies?
Some of the areas we explore are new media, youth media, communications ethics, policy and law, climate change communication, video games, sex and the media, and digital literatures.

Digital media are changing our word – let’s make it better. While we might be enjoying our smart homes, faster check-outs thanks to ‘tap and go’ technology, and the exciting prospects of future new developments which will make our everyday lives easier and more enriched, there are various ethical implications that might impact us in ways we don’t like or agree with. A big part of this has to do with the collection of our personal data.

Complementary areas of study
Communications and media studies complements any area of study, but some of the most popular ones are:
- politics
- journalism
- international studies
- film and screen studies
- business management
- marketing.

CRIMINOLOGY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About criminology
Criminologists investigate power, knowledge and justice domestically and internationally. We explore crime and social control, and analyse the causes of crime based on how we relate to it. We look at the criminal justice system and analyse achievements and challenges in this space.

Why study criminology?
Criminology addresses how we construct crime, its possible causes and how society should respond. Some of the topics we cover include policing, punishment, gender, race, victimisation and barriers to accessing justice within local and international contexts. You’ll be able to look at society’s pressing issues from different perspectives and develop a sound basis for independent, critical thinking.

Complementary areas of study
If you’re interested in criminology, you may also enjoy studying:
- sociology
- anthropology
- politics
- international studies
- law
- psychology
- human rights
- history
- Indigenous studies.
DIGITAL HUMANITIES

About digital humanities
Digital humanities is where technology, IT, humanities and virtual design intersect, giving you a valuable skill set. You'll learn how to talk about the humanities and social sciences using technology such as 3D modelling, game design, augmented reality and digital storytelling. We’re the first university in Australia to offer digital humanities as a major and specialisation, placing you at the forefront of this exciting new field.

Why study digital humanities?
In a world that’s moving to a knowledge economy, digital humanities is a field that is growing exponentially. By studying digital humanities you’ll move from a consumer to a producer and manipulator of data and be prepared for new roles in new media design and communication, big data, digital archiving and other areas that haven’t been imagined yet.

Complementary areas of study
Some of the other areas of study you may like to consider alongside digital humanities are:
- film and screen studies
- archaeology
- history
- criminology
- politics.

FILM AND SCREEN STUDIES

About film and screen studies
We look at historical, textual and critical approaches to film and screen. Studies cover Australian, Asian and European cinemas, Hollywood and its institutions, gender in film and TV, documentary film, Australian television, popular television genres, online screen forms and video practice.

Why study film and screen?
You’ll develop advanced critical and writing skills, and build skills in using audio-visual technologies to convey ideas. You’ll be able to understand and apply screen theory, critically engage with cinema practices, and be able to interpret forms of film and television within the context of digital culture. You’ll produce traditional essays as well as different forms of media, such as audio-visual essays and audio commentaries.

Complementary areas of study
If you’re interested in film and screen studies, you may also enjoy studying:
- communications and media studies
- languages
- international studies
- musical theatre
- literary studies.
CAREER OPTIONS
• Business
• Banking
• Insurance
• Diplomacy
• Trade
• Travel

FRENCH STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About French studies
Beginning at introductory, intermediate or proficient level, you’ll develop a high level of communicative competence in the French language, including translation skills. You’ll also gain a critical understanding of fundamental areas of French studies: literature, film, cultural studies, philosophy, politics and social sciences.

You’ll be able to pursue your interest through electives in these various fields, should you wish to. You’ll also be able to choose from a wide range of targeted international study options in francophone institutions, as well as a series of internships in a French-speaking environment both in Australia and in the francophone-speaking world (France and South Pacific region).

Why study French?
French is spoken in 42 countries across five continents. It’s one of the five official languages of the United Nations and is used by important international bodies such as the World Health Organization, the International Court of Justice, the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development, and the International Olympic Committee. The high level of cultural and linguistic competence you’ll gain by studying French will prepare you for exciting careers in Australia and around the world.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that complement French are:
• international studies
• international relations
• journalism
• linguistics
• literary studies
• communications and media
• interpreting
• translation
• teaching.

GENDER STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About gender studies
Gender studies is an exciting interdisciplinary field of inquiry that’s informed by the belief that all social processes and institutions are ‘gendered’.

Studies in this area bring innovative theory and research techniques to understanding the ways in which our bodies are sexed, gendered and sexually oriented, how these relate to contemporary and global debates on gender inequality, sexual and reproductive health and rights, and the plurality of sexualities.

Why choose gender studies?
You’ll be introduced to a variety of critical models of analysis — feminist and queer — that’ll assist you in developing a range of problem-solving skills. You’ll also develop transferable professional skills in gender analysis and an ethos of gender equality and social justice that’s transferable to your future career.

Your applied skills in gender analysis will be relevant to professional contexts such as non-governmental organisations, industry and community-based organisations, or civil society movements.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that complement gender studies include:
• philosophy
• sociology
• human rights
• criminology
• behavioural studies
• international studies
• international relations.
GERMAN STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About German studies
We offer a renowned program that allows you to track your progress against international benchmarks, giving you skills that are internationally relevant and transferable. There are flexible entry points (beginners, intermediate and proficient), ensuring language study at a level that suits your background.

Why study German?
German is the mother tongue of 110 million people, making it the most widely spoken first language in Europe. It’ll give you access to a rich contemporary and historical culture, including literature, philosophy, music and the visual arts. Today, Germany remains at the forefront of scientific developments, engineering and medical research.

Overseas opportunities
There are exciting overseas study opportunities at leading German and Austrian universities, such as Freie Universität Berlin, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Eberhard Karls Universität Tübingen, and Universität Wien. There are generous scholarships funded by Monash and DADD, the German Academic Exchange Service.

Complementary areas of study
Complementary areas to German are:
- international studies
- international relations
- linguistics
- education
- literary studies.

GLOBAL ASIA
Available as a major, minor or electives

About global Asia
An understanding of the Asian region and the global impact of its countries, cultures and economies is of critical importance to all future professionals.

This major takes an interdisciplinary approach to examine a range of issues relating to the history, politics, society, economy and culture of Asian countries, as well as the variety of expression of individual experience.

You’ll focus particularly on China, Japan, Indonesia, Korea, Malaysia and South Asia.

Why choose global Asia?
In your first year you’ll be introduced to a relevant language (either Chinese, Indonesian, Japanese or Korean), together with a broad overview of major developments in Asia across the past 500 years.

Throughout the major you’ll have access to a broad range of elective units in order to tailor your studies to match your personal and career interests.

Complementary areas of study
Areas that’ll further develop your understanding of global Asia include:
- human rights
- anthropology
- history
- gender studies
- international studies
- international relations.

As well as Asian language study:
- Chinese
- Japanese
- Korean
- Indonesian.
HISTORY
Available as a major, minor or electives

About history
History at Monash is one of the largest programs in Australia, covering American, Medieval and Renaissance, European, Australian, Asian, global history, Jewish and contemporary histories.

Why study history?
History is exciting, inspiring and diverse. Finding out about past peoples and societies opens up a world of fascinating stories and ideas. You’ll learn how history can inform the present and the future based on wise and unwise decisions made in the past. You’ll develop valuable skills in research, writing and forming a well-structured argument.

Complementary areas of study
History students gravitate to areas such as:
- archaeology
- politics
- religious studies
- international studies
- international relations
- human rights
- linguistics
- literary studies.

CAREER OPTIONS
- Media and communications
- Foreign affairs
- Museum curatorship
- Journalism
- Conservation
- Librarianship
- Teaching

HOLocaust and GENOCIDE STUDIES
Available as a minor or electives

About Holocaust and genocide studies
The 20th century has been called ‘the century of genocide’, but genocidal violence continues into the new millennium. This area of study asks you to reflect on why genocides happen and how people come to participate in mass violence.

Why choose to study it?
You’ll explore the Holocaust as a turning point in human history, along with the causes and effects of modern genocides all over the world and what’s being done to prevent them. You’ll examine themes such as trauma and testimony, the limits of representation, the survivor experience across generations and cultures, the role of the law in adjudicating war crimes, media coverage of atrocity and the failure to prevent genocide.

Complementary areas of study
These areas of study will help further your understanding of genocide and the Holocaust:
- Jewish studies
- history
- human rights
- international studies
- law.

CAREER OPTIONS
- Humanitarian organisations
- Education
- Law and justice
- Museum and memorial conservation
- Government
- Media and research

Clayton, Caulfield
HUMAN GEOGRAPHY
Available as a major, minor or electives

About human geography
Human geography explores the relationship between people and their environment. This relationship is complex and constantly changing, presenting major challenges such as rapid urbanisation, environmental degradation, climate change, uneven global development, rising socioeconomic inequality and poverty.

Why choose to study it?
We explore the causes, consequences and possible solutions to some of the most important issues facing human societies today: environmental degradation, climate change, globalisation, social inequity and poverty, natural disasters and human vulnerability. Human geography will give you insights into how to analyse, deconstruct and think creatively about urban and regional development, environmental policy and management.

Complementary areas of study
Other areas of study that'll contribute to your understanding of human geography are:
• criminology
• environmental science
• human rights
• international studies
• Indigenous studies
• politics
• sociology.

HUMAN RIGHTS
Available as a major, minor or electives

About human rights
We explore human rights law, practice and activism, which are among the most widely accepted approaches to addressing harms suffered by humans worldwide. We look at issues such as torture, hunger, military aggression, ethnic violence, political corruption and discrimination.

Why study human rights?
You’ll examine the nature and legitimacy of human rights’ claims and the role of human rights in the broader context of international affairs. You’ll investigate critical issues: Is torture ever justified? What are the rights of asylum seekers? Does the world have a responsibility for misplaced peoples? Can human rights violations justify interfering in the domestic affairs of the violating nation?

Complementary areas of study
Other areas of study you might like to explore are:
• criminology
• environmental sustainability
• journalism
• law
• international studies
• philosophy
• sociology
• history
• international relations.

CAREER OPTIONS

INDONESIAN STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About Indonesian studies
We’ve taught Indonesian for more than 50 years. We have one of Australia’s largest Indonesian library collections, including literature, music, film, translation and international studies, giving you the opportunity to develop a broad understanding of Indonesia and the wider world of Southeast Asia. There are flexible entry points (beginners, intermediate and proficient), ensuring language study at a level that suits your background.

Why choose Indonesian studies?
Indonesia is one of the world’s largest and most diverse nations, and one of Australia’s nearest and most important neighbours. You’ll develop strong cultural literacy and intercultural communication skills, and examine the interaction of language and culture with reference to history, performing arts, journalism, literature and translation.

Overseas study opportunities
There are many opportunities to study language and culture in Indonesia for a semester or a full year if you choose. Monash is a member of the Australian Consortium for In-Country Indonesian Study (ACICIS), which has specialist in-country programs in language, journalism, development studies and education.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that complement Indonesian studies are:
- communications and media
- education
- international studies
- international relations
- journalism
- linguistics
- literary studies
- music
- interpreting
- teaching
- translation.

INDIGENOUS CULTURES AND HistORIES
Available as major, minor or electives

About Indigenous cultures and histories
We cover a wide range of disciplines relating to Indigenous peoples, their culture, history and experiences. You’ll explore Indigenous history through units that combine anthropology, archaeology, history and heritage studies.

Why study Indigenous cultures and histories?
You’ll explore the origins and transformation of Australia’s 600 Indigenous groups that date back 50,000 years. You’ll learn to critically examine constructions of indigeneity and ‘Aboriginalism’, be able to recognise traditions in Indigenous studies in national contexts and apply them to real-world problems.

Working with Indigenous communities
By taking an internship you can work with Indigenous organisations around Australia and gain valuable experience through hands-on learning.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study that go well with Indigenous cultures and histories include:
- anthropology
- archaeology
- environmental science
- geography
- history
- human rights
- law
- linguistics
- politics.

CAREER OPTIONS
Diplomatic and commercial agreements between Indonesia and Australia open up career paths in:
- Trade

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About international studies
International studies examines the origins, processes and contestations of globalisation in the contemporary world. Ordinary people’s experiences and responses to global integration are at the centre of our inquiry. You’ll examine how local communities around the world embrace and also challenge aspects of globalisation.

Why choose international studies?
You’ll learn what it means to be a global citizen capable of actively engaging with a range of societies and cultures. The strength of studying international studies lies in the fact that it’s taught across multiple disciplines, allowing you to consider the most pressing issues facing the world today from different perspectives.

Complementary areas of study
Areas that’ll further develop your understanding of international studies include:
• human rights
• anthropology
• history
• international relations.

CAREER OPTIONS
• National and international diplomacy
• Humanitarian agencies
• Human rights advocacy
• Global media and journalism
• Defence and intelligence
• Foreign affairs
• Trade

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Available as a major, minor or electives

About international relations
International relations is the largest subfield of political science. Our program focuses on the major challenges of global politics, including war, security and development. We ask the critical questions about world politics: Who wields power? How does power generate both security and conflict?

Why choose international relations?
You’ll gain a comprehensive understanding of the key global debates, international conflicts and global institutions. Governance, poverty and human rights are central issues alongside policy implementation within the fields of security studies, international political economy, foreign affairs and global governance. You’ll apply your critical-thinking skills to analyse innovative, problem-solving solutions to major global challenges.

Complementary areas of study
Areas of study you may also be interested in are:

ITALIAN STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

About Italian studies
Italy is not only fashion, design and lifestyle – it has more than 70 per cent of the world’s artistic heritage with many outstanding examples of medieval, Renaissance and contemporary literature, renowned films, design and architecture. The Italian culture and language has had a significant impact on many countries worldwide through emigration.

Flexible entry points (beginners, intermediate and proficient) ensure language study at a level that suits your background.

Why choose Italian studies?
Our program offers unique opportunities to study at our Prato Centre in Italy, or go on exchange to Italian universities. You’ll develop language competence and analytical thinking, expand your knowledge of important areas of Italian culture, and become more aware of your own.

Complementary areas of study
You can complement your Italian studies with:

• communications
• international studies
• history
• journalism
• linguistics
• music
• politics.

ISLAMIC STUDIES

Available as a minor or electives

About Islamic studies
Islamic studies is dedicated to the rigorous pursuit of objective academic research on Islam, and contemporary issues of concern specifically to Australia and Asia-Pacific, and Muslim’s engagement with other civilisations and intercultural dialogue.

Why choose Islamic studies?
There’s a rising need to understand Islam from an Australian and international context. You’ll gain an insight into the history of a 1400-year-old religion and culture. You’ll be equipped with an advanced understanding of the historical, theological, legal and spiritual teachings of Islam and understand them within an Australian context.

Complementary areas of study
If you’re interested in Islamic studies, you may also like to consider:

• archaeology
• anthropology
• international relations
• history
• religious studies
• philosophy.

JAPANESE STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About Japanese studies
We have one of the most extensive Japanese study programs in Australia, engaging you with Japanese language, culture and society. Flexible entry points (beginners, intermediate and proficient) ensure language study at a level that suits your background.

Why choose Japanese studies?
Communicating in Japanese and being sensitive to diverse international contexts are useful complements to any course of study, whether it’s law, business or the visual arts. We’re cross-disciplinary which means we study Japanese from a variety of perspectives – historical, artistic, religious, political, international – especially within the broader Asian context.

Overseas opportunities
You can take advantage of numerous opportunities to study in Japan through exchange programs with prominent universities, and scholarships are available from Monash as well as the Japanese government.

Complementary areas of study
There are many disciplines that complement studies in Japanese, including:
- business studies
- international relations
- international studies

JEWISH STUDIES
Available as a minor or electives

About Jewish studies
You’ll gain an understanding of Jewish civilisation in its many aspects – language, literature, history, theology, philosophy, rabbinic, law, politics and sociology. It’s taught by the Australian Centre for Jewish Civilisation (ACJC), an interdisciplinary centre within Monash Arts whose mission is to research and teach the significance and evolution of Jewish culture and its contributions to the world.

Why choose Jewish studies?
ACJC is known for its global internships and overseas study trips to Israel, Europe and Rwanda. Our units can be studied through other areas of study such as history, religion and international studies, where they focus on three areas: Judaism and interreligious relations; Israel and the Middle East; and the Holocaust and genocide.

Complementary areas of study
We offer a range of study areas that complement Jewish studies, including:
- Holocaust and genocide studies
- history
- religion and theology
- international studies.
KOREAN STUDIES
Available as a major, minor or electives

About Korean studies
Korean studies is for those who want to acquire language skills and understand Korean culture and society. Language teaching at Monash uses interactive and multimedia resources to bring Korean culture to life. You’ll be introduced to Hangul, the Korean phonetic writing system, which will enable you to type in Korean from beginner’s level onwards. Our academics are world leaders in the field of Korean history, literary studies and language education.

Why study Korean?
Korea is one of Australia’s largest trading partners, and the close political and strategic relationship between the two countries is constantly developing and expanding in a number of sectors, including trade, education and tourism. Developing a high level of linguistic and intercultural competence will give you a clear advantage when applying for jobs and diversify your career options.

Overseas opportunities
All students are strongly encouraged to participate in the overseas exchange programs with Korea, where we have agreements with four prominent universities.

JOURNALISM
Available as a major, minor or electives

About journalism
You may have heard that the role of a journalist is to uphold the fourth estate. But what does that mean? It means that you’re the one who finds the real story before the rest of us realise the story is even there. You’re the one who informs us about the problems and achievements of our society; between our community and the world. There’s no more important job.

Why study journalism?
Journalism will teach you the skills to write succinctly, to a word limit and to a deadline. It’ll teach you to question ideas, and to question people face to face. You’ll learn to think on your feet and quickly gain an understanding of an issue. It’ll also teach you to be accurate, check your sources, dig deeper and analyse data to find the next big story in the field that most interests you. You’ll learn to use the very latest technologies in our fully-equipped Media Lab, one of the most advanced of its kind in Australia.

Complementary areas of study
There are many complementary areas of study, such as:
• international relations
• science
• human rights
• literary studies
• bioethics.

CAREER OPTIONS
Many of our graduates fulfil their aspiration to become a journalist. They’ve joined metropolitan papers, the ABC and SBS, along with commercial radio, TV and digital-only outlets. Others have gone on to careers in communications, speech writing and other professions where the skills of journalism are in demand.
LINGUISTICS AND ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Available as a major, minor or electives

About linguistics and English language
Language is central to human life, and linguistics is the scientific study of language and its application. It explores the way we understand, acquire and use language, both spoken and written. And while it considers the diverse characteristics of individual languages, it also uncovers the deeper properties that all languages share. You’ll explore multilingualism and multilingual societies, including areas such as language and globalisation, language learning and teaching and language endangerment. As part of this too, you’ll have the option to specialise in English as an international language.

Why study linguistics and English language?
Studying linguistics and English language will enable you to analyse the role of social interaction and the relationship between language, society, identity and culture. You’ll be able to communicate more effectively across cultures, and explore the ways in which language enables human thought and feeling to be revealed in sounds or written shapes, and the ways speakers and listeners navigate this process.

Complementary areas of study
Linguistics and English language crosses over many of the traditional boundaries of arts, social science and technology in its different applications. Because of this you’ll find you can combine linguistics and English language with a diverse range of subjects, such as:
- history
- philosophy
- languages
- communications and media studies
- immigration
- language planning and policy work
- teaching
- lexicography (dictionary making).

LITERARY STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

About literary studies
Literary studies brings together people who are passionate about literature and creative writing. Through core units you’ll be exposed to different cultural and historical contexts. You’ll then have the option to take electives from either literary studies or creative writing.

Why choose literary studies?
You’ll study some of the best-known and most interesting contemporary and historical literature, including novels, poems, short stories and non-fiction. You’ll develop an advanced understanding of literature in cultural, historical and professional contexts, be able to discuss literature informed by an understanding of literary movements, themes, genres and literary theory, and be able to explain how and why literature continues to shape society.

Complementary areas of study
If you take literary studies, you may also consider:
- linguistics
- other languages
- sociology
- communications and media studies
- history
- film and screen studies.

MUSICAL THEATRE
Available as a minor or electives

About musical theatre
Study the history and formal structures of ‘the musical’ with practical tuition and training in writing for musical theatre. You’ll examine key theoretical frameworks for the study of musical theatre, and embody this knowledge in practical song writing and libretto writing workshops, including sessions with leading industry professionals.

Why study musical theatre?
Providing a complete introduction to the world of musical theatre, you’ll gain in-depth, hands-on knowledge through multiple learning modes in high-quality performance situations under the guidance of industry professionals and staff members.

You’ll have the opportunity to work on the creation and performance of a musical theatre piece, from exploratory workshops to full public production. In devising and performing an original piece of musical theatre, you’ll undertake performance skills workshops in singing, dancing and technical aspects.

MUSIC
Available as a major, minor or electives

How can you study music at Monash?
There are different ways to include music in your studies. You can audition to enrol in the Bachelor of Music, or if you’re studying another course, such as a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science, you can still include non-practical music units as a major, minor or elective. There’s also an opportunity to join a range of small and large ensembles, some of which require an audition.

Studying music in your Arts course
A major or minor in music allows you to develop critical, analytical and interpretive skills to investigate different areas of music, such as western art music, popular and world music.

The major or minor in music within the Bachelor of Arts is available to students who have no previous music experience.

Complementary areas of study
There are many areas of study that complement music, including:

- film and television studies
- journalism
- history
- psychology
- communications and media.

PHILOSOPHY
Available as a major, minor or electives

About philosophy
Almost everyone has been puzzled by a philosophical question at some point. For example: Is morality objective or simply a matter of opinion? What is personal identity? What is consciousness? Is it rational to believe in God? These are some of the central issues we address in philosophy.

Why study philosophy?
Philosophy students become a natural at communication, forming clear and persuasive arguments, conceiving complex ideas and developing as an independent thinker. Philosophy studies are very popular with Arts/Laws students. You’ll be inspired to think outside the square and look at the world in a different way.

Complementary areas of study
Having a foundation in philosophy can enhance almost any other area you study, including:
- archaeology
- economics
- human rights
- criminology
- politics
- law
- journalism
- bioethics
- behavioural studies
- languages.

POLITICS
Available as a major, minor or electives

About politics
Politics is the study of power relations in society. It helps you understand essential issues about how societies are organised and their key institutions, including government, parliament and political parties.

Why study politics?
You’ll learn how contemporary political systems emerged historically, and the fundamental ideas that propelled that development. You’ll learn to evaluate and compare different political systems, both Australian and international, and their key institutions. Politics offers you a way of engaging in vital questions about power and authority, how people govern communities and the relationship between ideas and practice.

Complementary areas of study
Politics works well with a range of subject areas, depending on your interests. Some popular complementary areas of study are:

RELIATIONAL STUDIES
Available as a minor or electives

About religious studies
All human cultures reflect on the meaning of life through myth, symbol and abstract reflection.

In this area of study, you’ll explore how religions and theologies belonging to different cultures play an important intellectual role.

Why choose religious studies?
As modern-day societies become more diverse, there’s an increasing need for people who understand how religion operates in a variety of contexts. You’ll gain a deeper insight into the many beliefs and traditions, and how they impact on society and culture. Apart from gaining valuable knowledge, studying religions informs employers that you’re willing to understand the range of cultural traditions in our society.

SOCIOLOGY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About sociology

Sociologists investigate the key social and global issues of our time. We focus on diverse communities, cultures and processes of change. We examine class, gender, ethnicity, power and culture to understand how societies work and how social problems can be solved.

Why choose sociology?

Sociology is a versatile major. You’ll develop critical thinking and analysis skills that’ll equip you to assess the major social problems facing Australian and world societies in the 21st century. Our sociology program is among the most highly-ranked sociology programs in Australia, with your lecturers being leaders in the discipline. On graduation you’ll have the capacity to design, undertake and assess research – ranging from broad scale statistical studies to small scale qualitative research – with diverse communities.

Complementary areas of study

These include:
- behavioural studies
- criminology
- gender studies
- human rights
- international relations
- international studies
- philosophy.

SPANISH AND LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

Why choose Spanish and Latin American studies?

Spanish is spoken by more than 400 million people across 23 countries. It’s one of the most important languages for cultural exchange and business, especially as Australian trade with Latin America steadily increases. After completing a major in Spanish you’ll be proficient in the language, with progression tracked against the European Framework for Languages, an international benchmark. You’ll gain an in-depth understanding of contemporary Spanish and Latin American cultures and societies, focusing on identities (gender, race and nationalisms), historical memory, multiculturalism and tradition/modernity.

Overseas opportunities

You can apply for a Spanish Government Assistantship, which provides funding towards spending an academic year in Spain. There are other opportunities to study overseas, including a semester-long exchange.

Complementary areas of study

You may also be interested in complementary areas of study including:
- international studies
- international relations

UKRAINIAN STUDIES

About Ukrainian studies
We’re the only university in Australia to offer Ukrainian studies. The program develops your skills in written and spoken language, and gives you the opportunity to explore the culture, history, literature and everyday life of Ukraine.

Why study Ukrainian?
Ukraine today is fascinating – it’s a place of reform under duress and an example of a linguistically, ethnically and religiously pluralist society forging a new civic identity. Ukrainian studies gives you insight into a country where some of the great issues of the contemporary world are played out in everyday politics and life.

Overseas opportunities
Monash has an agreement with the University of Lviv in Ukraine. You can apply for a Monash Abroad travel grant to study for a semester at this or another Ukrainian university. We encourage our students to take a three-week Ukrainian language and culture summer school (June to July) in Ukraine in the second or third year of their studies.

Complementary areas of study
You may also be interested in complementary areas of study including:
• international studies
• international relations
• history
• linguistics
• literary studies
• music.

THEATRE AND PERFORMANCE

About theatre and performance
Take advantage of innovative facilities, outstanding opportunities, professional engagement and hands-on practical learning. You’ll integrate theoretical study with hands-on instruction and exploration of acting, technical knowledge, devising and performing theatre.

This major will prepare you for future careers where theatre and performance increasingly cross genres, cultures, borders and modes of artistic expression. You’ll learn from theatre professionals, gain exposure to the world of Australian theatre, and rapidly develop your craft as a performer, director, stage manager or producer.

The craft, intuitive ability and contacts you’ll develop, together with greater literacy and confidence in the world of theatre, will serve you throughout your career as a theatre maker.

Our staff
Our staff are active researchers and practitioners who engage in a range of industry projects, bringing their expertise and experience into their teaching. Our staff includes academics who are award-winning actors and playwrights, directors and dramaturges, as well as scholars who’ve published on a range of theatre and performance topics.
PATHWAYS INTO MONASH ARTS

 Master’s accelerated pathway  | Indigenous entry pathway | LL Laws pathway

1 Duration is based on a standard full-time load of 48 credit points per annum.
2 Science approved list: VCE, Biology, Chemistry, Environmental Science, Geography, Mathematical Methods I and II, Specialist Mathematics, Physics or Psychology. IB (SL or HL): Biology, Chemistry, Environmental Systems and Societies (SL only), Further Mathematics (HL only), Geography, Mathematics, Mathematics: Analysis and Approaches (HL only), Mathematics: Applications and Interpreations (HL only), Physics or Psychology.

3 Indicative – The provided score is the 2019 lowest selection rank to which an offer was made, or an estimate (E), and is to be used as a guide only.
4 Study at other campuses may be required depending on your choice of double degree.
5 This course has additional selection requirements; see monash.edu/study
6 This course is an accelerated course where you’ll be required to undertake more than the standard annual load of 48 credit points in order to complete the course in two calendar years.
7 Media communication subjects will be taken at Caulfield campus.
8 The Bachelor of Education (Honours) is an accelerated course where you’ll be required to undertake more than the standard annual load of 48 credit points in year two and/or your third in order to complete the course in four calendar years.
9 Every Monash course has a Monash Guarantee ATAR, which is lower than the expected selection rank for that course. See the eligibility criteria: monash.edu/study/how-to-apply/entry-schemes/the-monash-guarantee
