However, an existing staff member may be considered for an adjunct appointment where the eligibility criteria for an adjunct appointment as set out below are satisfied and the adjunct appointment will not:
   - create a conflict of interest for the staff member in their existing employment with the University; and/or
   - adversely affect the staff member’s performance in their existing employment with the University

2.2 An example of when this may occur is when an academic staff member working within one of the central portfolios seeks an adjunct position within a faculty for the purposes of being included in, and contributing to, the faculty’s research network.
Eligibility for teaching and research adjunct appointments

2.3 To be eligible for a teaching and research adjunct appointment, the professional standing and specialist expertise of the proposed appointee must be such that they will make a significant contribution to the teaching and research activities of a particular unit or research centre in the University (or, in the case of a clinical adjunct appointment, in a hospital setting).

2.4 Level B and C teaching and research adjunct appointees must have achieved recognition in an area of the teaching and research program of the unit in which the appointment will be held. Level D and E teaching and research adjunct appointees are expected to have achieved eminence in the relevant area within the unit, with Level E adjunct appointees having an established international reputation in the area.

Eligibility for research-only adjunct appointments

2.5 To be eligible for appointment as an Adjunct Junior Research Associate, a person must be a Monash University graduate research student who is awaiting the outcome of the examination of their PhD thesis and is considered by the head of unit in which the appointment is proposed to be making a significant contribution to the unit.

2.6 To be eligible for appointment to any other research-only adjunct appointment, the professional standing and specialist expertise of the proposed appointee must be such that they will make a significant contribution to the research activities of a particular unit or research centre in the University.

2.7 Levels A, B and C research-only adjunct appointees must have achieved recognition in an area of the research program of the unit in which the appointment will be held. Level D and E research-only adjunct appointees are expected to have achieved eminence in the research program of the relevant area within the unit, with Level E adjunct appointees having an established international reputation for research in the area.

3. Appointment

3.1 Adjunct appointments are for a set period of up to five years and are specific to a particular faculty (or area within the central portfolios). Adjunct appointments are unpaid appointments.

3.2 An adjunct may, in addition to their adjunct appointment be employed by the university to perform paid work outside the scope of their adjunct appointment.

4. Roles and responsibilities

4.1 Teaching and research adjunct appointees are expected to participate in the unit’s teaching, research and/or related activities relative to their academic level. For further information, please refer to teaching and research position classification standards (including supplementary descriptors for practice roles).

4.2 Research-only adjunct appointees are expected to participate in research and/or related activities of the unit relative to their academic level. For further information, please refer to the research-only position classification standards.

4.3 An adjunct appointee must:
- ensure that there is no conflict of interest between their adjunct appointment at the University and any outside work or activities or their employment or engagement with the University (if applicable);
- comply with the University’s intellectual property requirements as outlined in the letter of offer;
- acknowledge adjunct status in academic attributions related to the adjunct appointment; and
- attribute their academic publications to the University in accordance with the requirements of the University’s Research Outputs and Authorship Policy and Procedures.

- use the adjunct title provided to them, including on a business card and official correspondence; and
- supervise research higher degree students.

4.5 An adjunct appointee may not as part of their adjunct appointment:
- supervise the performance of a staff member under the University’s Performance development process: academic staff procedure;
- authorise the expenditure of University funds; and/or
- commit the University to any contractual or other legally binding agreement.
4.6 Adjunct appointees are required to comply with applicable University policies and procedures, in particular:

- Research Outputs and Authorship Policy and Procedures;
- Integrity and Respect Policy and Procedures;
- Information Technology Use Policy – Staff and Other Authorised Users;
- Occupational Health and Safety Policies; and
- Equal Opportunity.

5. Entitlements

5.1 Adjunct appointments are not paid appointments.

5.2 Adjunct appointees can be provided with access to University services and support, as appropriate in particular appointments, e.g.,

- email, use of University computing hardware and software, library services, access to relevant research space (laboratory, studio),
- reimbursement of pre-approved out-of-pocket expenses.

5.3 In exceptional cases, it can be recommended that an adjunct appointee receive an honorarium payment.

6. Concurrent employment and/or contractor engagements

6.1 Where an academic or organisational work unit proposes to engage an adjunct appointee to undertake the performance of work outside the scope of their adjunct appointment, the unit will confer with their HR Business Partner.

6.2 In exceptional cases, it may be recommended that an honorarium payment be made to the adjunct appointee for the proposed performance of work in accordance with 8.1-8.2 of this Procedure.

6.3 In other than exceptional cases and where the adjunct appointee does not already have a concurrent contract of employment with the University, the HR Business Partner will assist the unit to determine whether the proposed performance of work should proceed under a concurrent contract of employment in accordance with 3.2 of this Procedure or under a concurrent contractor engagement. The criteria set out at https://www.intranet.monash/finance/our-services/contractors/employee-contractor will be applied to make that determination.

6.4 Where the adjunct appointee does already have a concurrent contract of employment with the University, the Guidelines for Contractor Arrangements at https://www.intranet.monash/finance/our-services/contractors/guidelines will apply and the HR Business Partner will discuss the options available for payment of the proposed performance of work via Monash’s payroll system.

6.5 Where it is determined that the proposed performance of work should proceed under a concurrent contractor engagement and:

- the adjunct appointee does not already have a concurrent contract of employment with the University;
- the value of the work to be performed does not exceed $50,000 over a 12-month period; and
- the work to be performed is for other than the provision of “core services” as specified under the Guidelines for Contractor Arrangements.

the academic or organisational work unit may then apply to Procure to Payment Services for the concurrent engagement of the adjunct appointee as a contractor.

6.6 Where the value of the work to be performed does exceed $50,000 over a 12-month period, the concurrent engagement of the adjunct appointee as a contractor will be subject to the relevant procurement process as set out at https://www.intranet.monash/finance/finance-information/processes unless formally exempted by Strategic Procurement.

6.7 Where the work to be performed is for the provision of “core services”, the proposed contractor engagement of the adjunct appointee is also required to be referred to the Director, Workplace Relations for review and approval in accordance with the Guidelines for Contractor Arrangements.

7. Appointment Approval Process

Head of unit proposes an adjunct appointment

7.1 When a proposed adjunct appointee is identified, the relevant head of unit will:

- ensure that there is no conflict of interest between the candidate’s work outside the University or employment within the University and the proposed adjunct contribution to the activities of the unit (for further information on conflict of interest see the Conflict of interest procedure); and
- ensure that the appointment is being offered at the appropriate academic level relative to the academic classification standard.

7.2 In addition, the head of unit must ensure that the candidate meets the eligibility criteria. For positions that involve teaching, this includes a qualification of at least one Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) level higher than the program being taught, or equivalent relevant academic and professional or practice-based experience and expertise.
Where a candidate does not hold the appropriate AQF qualification, the head of unit must consider a range of matters when determining equivalent experience, including (but not limited to):

- the extent to which the candidate’s professional experience demonstrates specific knowledge and skills, and their capacity to establish the learning outcomes required of the relevant AQF level;
- the length of time the candidate has spent working in a relevant profession and their leadership and achievements in that field;
- alternative training and/or qualifications and/or awards that demonstrate the candidate’s leadership or expertise in the field of education.

Where required, the HR Business Partner will provide advice and assistance to the head of unit throughout the appointment process.

Head of unit initiates the appointment action

The head of unit or delegate will:

- enter information in support of the application to make an adjunct appointment in the Job Request in Rex; and
- upload the proposed appointee’s curriculum vitae (CV).

Monash HR finalises information

Monash HR will:

- complete the remaining information in the Job Request in Rex;
- confirm that the proposed appointee’s curriculum vitae (CV) is uploaded and all required information has been provided in support of the appointment; and
- initiate the Rex Job Request for the relevant approvers.

Although the required approvals may vary between Faculty/Division, the table below summarises the approvals that are required for all adjunct appointments at the University. Approvers may request additional information clarifying and supporting the case for appointment.

Approval of an adjunct appointment

All proposals for adjunct appointments at Level E must be recommended by the dean before being submitted to Monash HR for approval by the Vice-Chancellor and President, following endorsement of the Provost and Senior Vice-President.
