Gender

The Monash MBA invites applications from high-performing managers with a minimum of three years' experience from a wide range of sectors and professional backgrounds.

Focus on next-generation problems

The Monash MBA emphasises new thinking and new business models for the next generation of successful enterprises. The program features technology development, design thinking, entrepreneurship and creativity.

Global orientation & international experience

The program involves international projects and study in overseas markets. The MBA community of students, professors and business partners comprises people from multiple nationalities and cultural backgrounds.

The MBA of management practice

The hallmark of a successful executive is the proven ability to strategise and execute. Students will graduate with a portfolio of completed consulting projects in strategy, commercialisation of technology, start-up ventures and international business.

Leadership and personal development

The Monash MBA enables students to develop critical executive capabilities and personal style. The Leadership program is integrated into all MBA modules and uses cutting-edge technologies and frameworks in a world-class program.
