

THE UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY

MONASH
University

Monash Centre for Scholarship in Health Education (MCSHE)

Health Education Research Micro-Conferences

A series of education research micro-conferences via Zoom presented to you by Sydney Health Education Research Network & Monash Centre for Scholarship in Health Education

PROGRAM

Tuesday 27th October 1-2pm

Workplace learning

Annette Burgess - A longitudinal faculty development program: supporting a culture of teaching

Louise Allen - Utilising a social theory of learning to explain the possible impacts of interactive continuing professional development programs

Elizabeth Bourne - Student placements without increased stress in speech pathology

Julia Blackford - Be prepared: The impact of a week of simulation on graduate entry masters physiotherapy students' confidence, preparedness and performance on their first clinical placement

Register here:

https://micro_conference_27th_October

Wednesday 4th November 1-2pm

Assessment

Carol Pizzuti - Multi-source feedback - An opportunity for improving learning and performance culture

Delyse Leadbeatter - Longitudinal assessment for learning basic science in an oral health therapy program

Merrolee Penman - Exploring feedback practices within the 'learning through participation' signature pedagogy of allied health placements

Andrew Bartlett - Towards assessment of pharmacy preceptors: A qualitative study of preceptor and preceptee perspectives

Register here:

https://micro_conference_4th_November

Thursday 12th November 1-2pm

Work-ready graduates

Annette Burgess - Interprofessional patient safety team-based learning: Learning from each other

Sarah Meiklejohn - The role of health professions' accreditation standards in facilitating outcome-based education: A policy analysis

Claire Palermo - How prepared are healthcare graduates for practice? Insights from a qualitative study

Margaret Nicholson - Resilience: Meeting life's challenges head on

Register here:

https://micro_conference_12th_November

Thursday 3rd December 1-2pm

Patient focussed

Heather Russell - Social histories: Seeing rural patients' lives through a holistic lens

Deb Leach - The golden hour - An inter-professional immersive simulation program

Simone Gibson - "It would have been more constructive if she had given me points to improve on"
Student perceptions of seeking patient feedback

Roxanna Pebdani, Fereshteh Pourkazemi, Martin Raffaele - Living case studies: Using video case studies as tools in distance education

Register here:

https://micro_conference_3rd_December

FURTHER INFORMATION: Mcshe.admin@monash.edu or jade.lor-chan@sydney.edu.au

