COLLEGE WELFARE ASSOCIATION MEETING

The annual general meeting of Frankston Teachers' College Welfare Association will be held in the college hall at 8 o'clock tonight (Wednesday), and all interested persons, particularly the parents of students, are invited to attend.

Officers to be elected are president, two vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer and auditor.

Nominations for election as officers or members of the committee may be submitted on the night of the meeting.

Present officers are eligible for re-election.

The Welfare Association, formed in 1960, is a nonstatutory organisation consisting mainly of parents and other citizens interested in the college.

The association's most important aim is to help students' parents and members of the general public to establish closer personal contact with the college. It takes a keen interest in student welfare.

GARDEN PARTY AT TEACHERS' COLLEGE

The R.A.A.F. Central Band, under the conductorship of Squadron-Leader L. Hicks, will again play at Frankston Teachers' College's garden party to be held next Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m.

This annual event, organised by the welfare association, provides an opportunity for students, parents, friends, staff and interested members of the general public to meet in congenial surroundings and, if desired, to inspect the college and its hostel.

In addition to the program of music to be provided by the band, first-year students will sing selections from "Sound of Music," and a group of third-year students will play music from the present folk revival in the traditional, freely-improvised manner using guitar, double bass and percussion. Afternoon tea will be available and all visitors are assured both of a warm welcome and of a very enjoyable afternoon.

breatstroke, and conditionally were hard-fought battles the order of the day, but as the afternoon progressed scores between the leading colleges, Frankston and Melbourne, became extremely close—so close, in fact, that only the last event of the day, the women's "A" grade relay, decided and Annette Robin on the women's "A" grade relay, decided by the women's "A" grade relay, decided by the women's "A" grade relay, decided by the women's "B" grade relay, decided by the women's "B" grade progression and Annette Robin on the women's "B" grade progression and between the leading progression and between the winning college.

Prior to this event Frankston and Melbourne were level with 151 points each, The win gained Frankston the shield with a three-points lead.

Team spirit was very much in evidence among the Frankston swimmers and was undoubtedly a crucial factor in their success.

Not only was this evidenced by relay placings—either firsts or seconds in all relays—but by the num-all relays—but by the number of students who swam with every effort despite some ill-health.

The importance, too, of spectator support should be recognised. This has always been a noticeable feature amongst Frankston students, and their 1967 enthusiasm perhaps reached an all-time high.

Many individual swim-

Many individual swimmers gave sterling performances.

Kay Leach swam with tremendous stamina to break her own record of two years' standing in the women's "A" grade 50 m. butterfly (34 secs.), She also won the women's "B" grade 100 m. freestyle and "caught up" 10 or 15 yards in the women's open medley relay to help Frankston gain second place in this event.

The occasion was one of the most exciting in the history of the sports. Not only were hard-fought battles the order of the day, but as the afternoon progressed scores between the Russell Woodley, who won the men's "B" grade 50 m. breast-stroke (40.5 secs.), and Annette Robinson, who won the women's "B" grade 50 m. backstroke (40.6 secs.). Annette also came second in the women's "A" grade 100 m. freestyle.

Special mention should be made of Ken Wallis, one of Frankston's best swimmers who, while unable to perform at his optimum on the day of the sports because of ill-health, undoubtedly helped the college to victory through his performances in team events.

Other winners and placegetters were A. Ballantyne.

R. Bruce, R. McDonald, J. Middleton, J. Lethbridige, L. Drysdale, M. Peart, J. Fagg, F. Todd, C. Woodward.

The physical culturation staff at the college paid tribute to all students, swimmers and supporters, and indicated the special ment attaching to the swimmers' victory in that they overcame the very considerable difficulties associated with travelling to Moorabbin pools to train.

Final results:— Division 1: Frank

Division 1: Frankston Teachers' College, 178; Melbourne, 175; Toorak, 140; Burwood, 93.

Division 2: Coburg Teacher's College, 164; Geelong, 152; Ballarat, 127; Bendigo, 89.

Mannequin Parade next Wednesday

One of the year's outstanding social functions at Frankston Teachers' College is the annual Mannequin Parade. This year it is to be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium.

The College Welfare Association organises the parade each year and this year has gained the cooperation of Gallants of Wells St., to supply a range of autumn clothes for showing — day wear, after-five wear and formal wear.

Six models will participate. Three are professional models — Heather Pettifer, Winifred Smith and Janet McLellan, and three are college students.

Among the official party will be mayoress Mrs. Walker, and Mrs. P. Hosking and daughter.

Tickets, which cover supper, are available from Mrs. L. Hart, 347 Nepean Hwy., Frankston (783 3926), from the college (783 2393), and at the door on the night of the parade.

There was considerable local interest in the marriage of Mr. Tom Wells and Miss Judith Longden at St. Michael and All Angels Church, Beaumaris, on Easter Tuesday.

Both are members of the Frankston Teachers' College staff and are wellknown district squash players.

Mr. Wells, a lecturer in art/craft, and a painter of some note, was a foundation member of the college in 1959, and Miss Longden, a member of the physical education staff, joined the college three years ago.

They hope to make their home at Langwarrin, and to continue at the college after their marriage.

The have been honored recently at several functions by college staff, other friends, and relatives.

SA STUDENT TEACHERS TO VISIT FRANKSTON

Forty students-in-training from Wattle Park Teachers' College, in Adelaide, are shortly to be the guests of Frankston Teachers' College for a week.

The students, who are to be accompanied by two of their staff members, are to arrive next Monday and are to be billeted in the homes of individual Frankston College students.

The visit is in return for that made to Wattle Park last year by 40 Frankston students who were accompanied by the principal, Mr. G. A. Jenkins, and senior woman lecturer, Miss K. Kentish.

Frankston Students' Representative Council, headed by Mr. Graeme O'Toole, (president) and Miss Ann Shelldrake (vice-president) has been working enthusiastically in conjunction with a staff committee since the beginning of the year to make certain that the Adelaide guests are entertained to a program as varied and enjoyable as possible.

Trips are to be made to the Somers camp for children, to Mornington Peninsula, to the Latrobe Valley, and around Melbourne.

Activities at the college itself will include a combined revue, a square dance and barbecue, and an inter-college sports match.

BUSY YEAR FOR STUDENT TEACHERS

The Frankston Teachers' College students continued to be very active after the su-cessful visit by Wattle Park student teachers from South Australia earlier in the term.

Recently the college was addressed by the Herald art critic, Alan McCulloch. He explained how he came to be an art critic and what was entailed in his job.

He concluded his talk with a brief evaluation of the American Art Exhibition which was recently shown at the National Gallery.

Rehearsals are well under way for one of the high lights of the college year—the college musical production. The enthusiasm of the students promises to make this production—

"Naughty Marietta," one of the most successful yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell Rollins, teachers from Twenty-Nine Palms, California who are holidaying in Australia, visited the college whilst in Frankston. Staff members were interested to meet them, and they seemed most impressed by what they were shown.

Wednesday.

It was a close contest all day, with both sides striving to gain a clear break. At quarter-time Larpol led by seven points with a score of 4.1 to Frankston's 3.0.

During the second quarter Frankston gradually closed the gap. The student teachers played with more system and purpose, es-pecially up forward, where necially up forward, where their speedier flankers gave the Aarpol defenders a torrick time. At half-time, Frankston held a one-point advantage, 8.3 to 8.2.

In the third term Frankston outplayed the young policemen for most of the quarter. In the last few minutes Larpol came back with a nuick goal to cut the

FRANKSTON TOPS IN TEACHER SPORTS

Frankston Teachers' College again this year has proved itself the leading participant in metropolitan inter-college team sport, taking part in 13 of the 17 finals and carrying off seven premierships.

Frankston premiership teams were: Basketball firsts (d. Burwood 23-21); basketball seconds (d. Burwood 33-28); golf (d. Coburg 4½-3½ games); hockey seconds (d. Larnook 2-1); softball seconds (d. Toorak 12-6); squash firsts (d. Burwood 19-13 games); and volleyball (d. Coburg 3-0).

Squash firsts and volleyball teams were undefeated throughout the year, volleyball consistently gaining overwhelming wins.

Badminton and basketball thirds had bad luck. They were undefeated until the last match, losing the finals to Coburg and Burwood respectively.

Second to Frankston in the number of premierships gained was Burwood, with five, two of them against Frankston — football (d. Frankston 17.15 to 7.10) and basketball thirds (d. Frankston 23-12).

Coburg was premier team in badminton (d. Frankston 5 sets 160 points to 4 sets 147 points); baseball and tennis first.

Toorak gained one premiership, softball firsts (d. Frankston 10-6), and Larnook gained one, hockey firsts (d. Frankston 2-0).

Melbourne is to compete next term against the winner of the last semi-final (unknown as yet) in men's basketball.

COLLEGE PRINCIPAL LOOKS AT FUTU

Frankston Teachers' College is very groteful to The Standard and its advertisers for repeating last year's gesture of issuing a teachers' college supplement to give publicity to Education Week. The Standard has a fine record of interest in education, and without the support of the Press, public attention certainly would not have been focussed so closely upon education as it has been lately.

Since last Education Week there have been important developments in teacher education. Some at these will directly offect Frankston Teachers' College.

The Minister of Education (Mr. Thompson) recentby announced that, commencing in 1968, a now threeyear course of training will gradually be introduced for all primary toochers. There has been a three-year course for infant toochers since 1951, but during the next few years the new three-year course will become general. Of about 2000 studentships expected to be awarded for 1968, 750 will probably be three-year awards. Franksten Teachers' College will receive a share of both types of studentship-holder. Enrolment trends suggest that the number of students of the college will increase rapidly from 600 to about 750.

COLLEGE PRINCIPAL LOOKS AT FUTURE

Frankston Teachers' College is very grateful to The Standard and its advertisers for repeating last year's gesture of issuing a teachers' college supplement to give publicity to Education Week. The Standard has a fine record of interest in education, and without the support of the Press, public attention certainly would not have been focussed so closely upon education as it has been lately.

Since last Education Week there have been important developments in teacher education. Some of these will directly affect Frankston Teachers' College.

The Minister of Education (Mr. Thompson) recently announced that, commencing in 1968, a new three-year course of training will gradually be introduced for all primary teachers. There has been a three-year course for infant teachers since 1951, but during the next few years the new three-year course will become general. Of about 2000 studentships expected to be awarded for 1968, 750 will probably be three-year awards. Frankston Teachers' College will receive a share of both types of studentship-holder. Enrolment trends suggest that the number of students at the college will increase rapidly from 600 to about 750.

Another development has been the Commonwealth Government legislation to provide some capital for teachers' college buildings. Whether any of this money will be expended on Frankston Teachers' College is a matter of Government policy, but the accommodation of 750 students will certainly require additional lecture-rooms, a new library, and improved dining facilities for day students.

A further development may well be the incorporation of Frankston Teachers' College in an organisation of colleges where it will receive full recognition as a college of advanced education preparing at least some of its students for the award of a degree. Education Week is an appropriate time for the community to consider such great possibilities.

MATHEMATICS

Until recently the emphasis in school mathematics has been on the mechanical aspects of calculation and rote-learning The tremendous advances currently taking place in mathematics and science demand that today's children, the future citizens of the 21st century, must be taught the "why" as well as the "how" of mathematics.

The new courses recently introduced aim at developing, as far as possible, in each individual child, an appreciation of mathematical ideas and their many applications in the modern world around him.

The new methods now employed offer teachers ample means of stimulating interest in their young basic ideas on which the pupils and of setting them structure of mathematics on the path to discovering is built.

SCIENCE

The tremendous advances in science over the last decade have given rise to an urgent need for increased understanding of scientific ideas by everyone, and educators are trying new approaches to the teaching of traditional science subjects.

School curricula have been revolutionised, and changes in syllabuses have taken place at all levels.

The Education Department's Curriculum and Research Branch is currently engaged in devising for primary schools new courses aimed at leading pupils to a clearer understanding of science and the work of the scientist.

In such courses, the more formal learning of factual knowledge becomes less important than the practical skills of observation, measurement, classification, data collection and interpretation, the drawing of conclusions and writing of reports.

The successful teacher in the new situation needs a thorough understanding of the new approach, and sufficient competence and confidence. These needs the college course aim to meet.

EDUCATION

Education, as a Teachers' College subject, centres around the child. His physical, mental, social and emotional growth is studied from the psychological viewpoint.

Some areas of the education course are devoted to methods of teaching, both old and new. Comparisons are made with other States and countries through a study of the organisation of their education systems.

All courses include a section related to the organisation and administration of the Victorian Education Department, from the Director-General to the youngest child in the classroom. -A. H. FRY, B.A., B.Ed.,

M.A.C.E.

ART

In the teachers' college, the first year of the course is devoted to the understanding of the child through his art expression, and to methods of classroom organisation that will encourage and develop the child's ability to express his knowledge, imagination and inventiveness through two and three dimensional materials.

The student also has to experience these materials and so practical sessions are held where the students experiment with many different types of art materials.

In the second and third years, the students are given the opportunity of studying painting, pottery, or silk screen printing at greater depth.

Chilean Folk Song

Hot tortillas! Hot tortillas!

Buy my pancakes crisp and light,

I am passing by your window

With a merry song tonight.

Chorus Loudly I'm calling,

Loudly I'm calling.

Who'll come and buy crispy little pancakes,

Tortillas buenas!

2. From the window not an answer

To my cheerful nightly call,

And I wonder if they hear me

For they answer not at all.

To give a Latin American sound to this song the tambourine, castanets, maracas, as well as the double bass, ukelele and guitar are used.

It is important that the instruments do not drown the words, so each instrument need only be played or tapped on the first beat of each bar.

The chorus is loud as the pancake seller is calling to the people to come from their houses and buy. All instruments could be played here.

Other instruments could be used to give a Latin American flavour made from tins, coconut shells, sticks, bottles and even small bells.

When the song is known well enough and there is a child who is willing to sing alone, the first verse could be sung by him while the percussion band plays an accompaniment, and everyone can join in with the chorus.

The song can also be dramatized.

THE FOX

1. The fox went out on a chilly night,

Prayed for the moon to give him light,

For he'd many a mile to go that night

Before he reached the town - O

Town - O, town - O, he'd many a mile to go that night

Before he reached the town - O

- He ran till he came to a great big inn,
 The ducks and the geese were put there in,
 Said "A couple of you will grease my chin
 Before I leave this town O, etc.
- He grabbed the grey goose by the neck,
 Slung the little one over his back,
 He didn't mind their quack, quack, quack,
 And the legs all dangling down O, etc.
- Old Mother Pitter-Patter jumped out of bed, Out of the window she cocked her head Crying "John, John the grey goose is gone, And the fox is on the town - O, etc.

5. Then the fox and his wife without any strife, Cut up the goose with a fork and knife. They'd never had such a supper in their life, And the little ones chewed on the bones - O, etc.

2. Here he comes whirling, the rope in his hand

1. Over the prairie the cowboy will ride

In this song these instruments are used:maracas, castanets, guiro, as well as the double bass, guitar and ukelele.

The third verse introduces the spring castanets where "quack, quack, quack" would normally be sung. All other instruments are stopped so the sound will be clear and concise.

In the fourth verse, the words - "John, John, the grey goose is gone, etc." is very effective if spoken.

The fifth verse introduces a new instrument called the guiro. It is shaped like a fish with corrugations along its back where a stick is scraped across, giving the sharp cutting sound.

These instruments are only a suggestion to what can be used. Other percussion instruments may be used anywhere in the song. The children will suggest some.

5. Then the fox and his wife without any strife,

2. Here he comes whirling, the rope in his hand,
Soonhewill lasso the cattle to brand.
Work now is over, he gallops away,
Yip-pee-ki, Yip-pee-ki-yay.

The introduction to this song is simply the tune of the last line.

The instruments used are the guitar, ukelele, double bass, rhythm sticks, triangle, and two coconut halves.

The steady beating of the horse's hoof's is done by banging the coconut halves together in time to the music. Here other instruments such as rhythm sticks etc. can be used to allow more children to participate.

In the first verse, the tune is sung by all voices and when the word "spurs" is sung the triangle is played.

A harmonising tune is sung by two voices in the second verse, and the last line repeated with added emphasis.

A tunnel is waiting to swallow the twein

corrugations

The introduction to this song is simply

1. Clickety clack a-lunk a-lunk

A train is coming a-chunk a-chunk

A clickety clack a mile away

A7 It hasn't a second of time to stay,

It sings a noisy clackety song

A rickety rackety rockety song

Get off the track this isn't where you belong.

Over the bridge, across the lake,
 A mile a minute it has to make,
 A terrible snake with gleaming eyes,
 That wriggles and wriggles along the ties.
 The cinders fall in fiery rain,
 A tunnel is waiting to swallow the train,
 Goodbye, Goodbye, tomorrow he'll come again.

In this song it is very important that the words are clearly spoken. Rhythm sticks are used to keep the steady beat and the tambourine is played occasionally.

The second verse is sung perhaps a little faster to denote the speed of a train.

WHEN YOU'RE HAPPY

Traditional Song

1. When you're happy and you know it clap your hands,
When you're happy and you know it clap your hands,
When you're happy and you know it
Then you really ought to show it
When you're happy and you know it
Clap your hands.

When you're happy and you know it tap your head.
 etc.

When you're happy and you know it stamp your feet.
 etc.

 When you're happy and you know it shout "Hooray" etc. Allow the children to clap their hands to the first verse as they sing.

In the second verse, the wood block can be used to give the amusing effect of tapping the head.

The tambourine is played in the third verse. The drums or other heavy sounding instruments can be played also.

The use of percussion instruments can be determined by the children themselves. Discussions on the most suitable for each verse can be held. The children may decide to employ others than those suggested here.

THE GROUNDS

Works and equipment have been financed by SRC funds through its grounds improvements committee, welfare funds, proceeds of college fairs and departmental subsidies.

Earliest projects included the clearing, levelling and general preparation and sowing of the oval, hockey field, basketball courts and open playing fields of the north-western section of of the grounds, and extensive tree and shrub planting.

In 1964 a Ferguson tractor was purchased with fair proceeds and SRC funds, and attachments subsequently purchased have facilitated the development and improvement of the college surroundings.

In 1966, site works on land adjacent to the hostel, were undertaken by the grounds improvement committee, and this year, the recently completed tennis courts on the south-western frontage are to be linked with the college entrance by a beautification scheme featuring Australian trees and shrubs.

TEACHING PRACTICE

Three times a year the Frankston Teachers' College student leaves the daily college routine to undertake several weeks of teaching practice in one of the 24 training schools attached to the college.

This scheme aims to enable the student to practise those aspects of his college course which deal with methods of teaching, and to observe skilled and experienced teachers in action.

The training teacher supervises the practice of about six students each year. First-year students teach relatively simple lessons under close supervision of the training teacher. Second and third-year students may teach the full program for the grade over several consecutive days.

Students write detailed plans of their lessons for approval by the training teacher prior to the actual teaching of the puls. College lecturers visit the schools once a week to confer with training teachers and to observe and advise students on their practical teaching.

The student has to reach a certain standard of competence in practical teaching to qualify for the award of a Trained Teacher's Certificate.

As changes in the school curriculum and in teaching methods are continuously in process in a changing world, the program of teaching practice is a vital aspect in the education of trainee teachers.

The 24 training schools attached to Frankston Teachers' College extend from Mornington up to Moorabbin and across to Dandenong North.

To prepare plans for changes in the program of teaching practice occasioned by the introduction in 1968 of a three-year course of preservice training for primary teachers, the principal has recently established a standing committee on teaching practice. College lecturers will work together with inspectors of schools. head teachers. infant mistresses and teachers to plan extensions and revisions of the present program.

INFANT EDUCATION

All students study aspects of infant education; i.e., the teaching of children in the 5 - 8 year age group.

During their course, the students learn how mathematics as a subject should be introduced to young children. They learn how to teach reading to young children, and are introduced to a variety of alternative approaches which will assist in the development of reading, of fluent oral language, and of logical and effective writing.

New approaches to the teaching of reading, such as S.R.A. Reading Laboratories, I.T.A., and Words in Color are evaluated, and students are shown how these new approaches may be used to reinforce the more traditional approaches.

DRIVING TUITION

Towards the end of 1966. the college accepted General Motors-Holden's offer of the use of a car for student driving instruction

This car, a Vauxhall Viva, was supplied fully equipped for driving instruction with dual controls, extra mirrors and other instructional devices, and is regularly serviced by Bayside Motors of Frankston. Driving in-structors are supplied by Peninsula Driving School of Frankston.

The students make use of their spare periods and time before and after the college day, for driving instruction, with the result that up to 55 lessons per week can be rostered.

An average of 10 lessons appears to be required by a beginner before he can gain a licence. To date, 90 students have gained their licences as a result of this scheme.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

With the decreasing demands for physical labor and the psychological pressures of a racing world, the human body receives less and less stimulation.

Therefore, the greatest need in physical education today is to stimulate an understanding of the body, and an increased desire to participate physically in a greater recreation and leisure time.

The work at Frankston Teachers' College is levelled both at the student as an individual, and the student as an influential member of the community as he goes to Frankston schools to assist in the teaching of the schools' own physical education programs.

STUDENTS RETURN FROM TOURS

Looking extremely suntanned and healthy, 94 students and six staff members of Frankston Teachers' College last week returned from vacation tours to Central Australia and Heron Island.

Those on the two camping tours to the Centre travelled by bus, and took in such places as Broken Hill, Alice Springs and Coober Pedy.

Visits were made to Staney Chasm, Simpson's Gap, Ayers Rock and the Olgas.

While delight was expressed with the Centre tours as a whole, general depression was felt by bothstudents and staff at the made on the magnitude of

On the Heron Island tour

students and staff travelled by train, bus, boat and plane.

As well as spending a full week on the island itself, the party was able to spend two days on the Gold Coast, a day in Brisbane when Parliament House was visited, and a day both ways in Sydney.

All were specially impressed by Heron Island's coral reefs, which were inspected from a glass-bottomed boat, and on several occasions with the aid of masks and snorkels.

SUSPICIOUS OF OUR MPs? -HONORABLE CAREER SAYS MR. LYNCH

A large number of Australians are generally suspicious of their parliamentary representatives, are usually outraged by proposals to increase M'sP salaries and allowances and are extremely reluctant to admit of their possible value in any way.

This observation was made by Mr. Phillip Lynch, MHR, in a recent talk to Teachers' College students about the role of a Federal Parliamentarian.

He suggested that many left *of Chair? would believe that mem-bers of Parliament have changed little since Charles Dickens painted an unflattering and lugubrious picture of the parliamentary species in England more than 100 years ago.

Mr. Lynch continued: "What manner of men are they who with shining or weary eyes behold the white vision of Parliament House, ascend the stairs to King's Hall, are welcomed into the party or caucus rooms, and enter the legislative chamber, taking their seats on the

"For some it is enough to acquire the status of a Member of Parliament: these may be men, usually advanced in years, to whom it is the crown and reward of a career in the trade union movement, or men who are content to participate in the pageantry or the drama of great national occasions, to be close to great national occasions, and to be distinguished guests at local

"But for the vast majorbackbenches, to right or ity Parliament still has the mystique of an ancient and respected institution, still the source of ultimate power for the advancement of the community and still predominantly the forum for honorable ambitions. For most there is a light on the hill, even if it proves to be a will o' the wisp. One of the ironies of politics is that notwithstanding considerable public criticism of politicians and the general Australian characteristic of debunking men in public life, there is never any shortage of candidates within the Parties when a safe seat falls vacant.

> of the the current political period is the number of young men who are intent on a parliamentary career. Of the Speaker's the 184 members of the House of Representatives and the Senate, five are under the age of 35.

"Members on both sides of the House are generally hardworking and industrious although activity is no necessary criteria of a qualitative and effective performance.

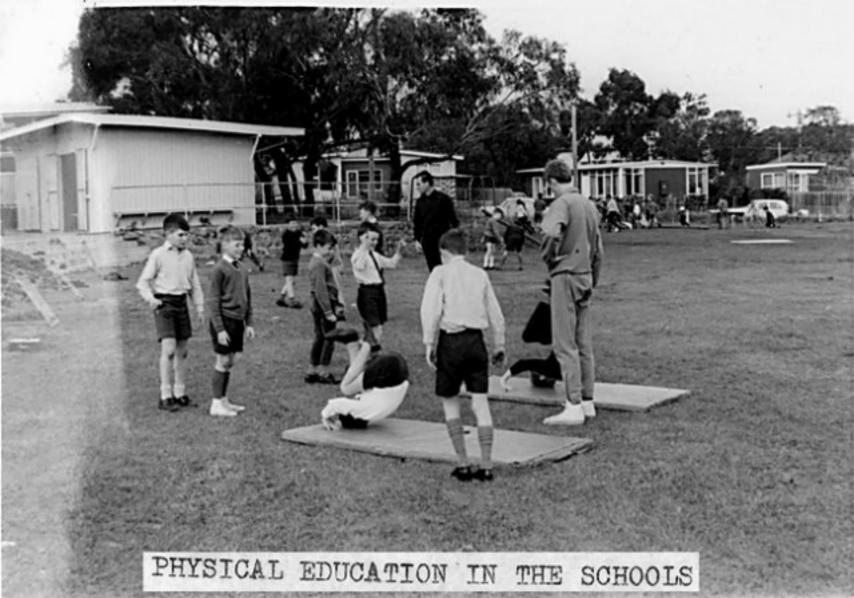

"As with any vocation or occupation a parliamentary career has its satisfactions as well as its hazards and frustrations. The life is hectic, challenging, uncertain and insecure, and there is always the problem of finding time for the things which must be done. You come in contact with a complete cross section of the electorate and people are forever interesting, although demand-ing. Above all, however, politics has its own particular fascination. It is the point of ulimate power for the advancement of the community and to have even a small part in the process of developing a better nation is a source of enduring satisfaction," he concluded.

An appreciation of the Bass Strait islands

It was astounding how little known and appreciated were the Islands of Bass Strait, Dr. Stephen Murray-Smith, of Mt. Eliza, an education lecturer at Melbourne University, told students at a recent Frankston Teachers' College assembly. His address concerning the islands was one of the most interesting given this year at the college.

Dr. Murray-Smith said most Australians preferred to look inward to such places as Alice Springs or Ayers Rock.

However, he deplored the behavior of some visitors to the islands, who took pleasure in killing wildlife, such as the Cape Barren geese and mutton birds. He also expressed concern at the thought of the despoliation of countryside which could occur from more general holiday-making in the area.

While keeping his promise to be light-hearted in his approach, Dr. Murray-Smith succeeded in deftly sketching important geographical, historical, and economic features of his subject.

He has a deep personal interest in the islands — about which he confesses to feeling somewhat guilty — and seeks to justify this by reference to the remark of Pierre D'Harcourt: "It is not necessarily true that permanent contact with humanity brings us nearer to man."

Visited by Garibaldi

Dr. Murray-Smith enlivened his discussion by tossing in an "odd" fact here and there. For instance, the only place in Australia visited by Garibaldi was Hunter Island.

Here the Italian patriot "walked inland, found a cottage and deserted grave and said that this was where he would like to die".

Again, from time to time Dr. Murray-Smith indulged in what he termed "personal yarning."

He told of his absorbing experience of seeing fishermen "straighten up every three or four minutes and look around." He regards this as a "classic historical gesture of primitive man in

The three islands of the Kent Group obviously hold the most fascination for Dr. Murray-Smith and his family and friends. They spend a month each year on Deal Island, the largest of the group.

History romantic and horrifying

The history of the Bass Strait islands is at once romantic and horrifying.

Challenge and catastrophe were ever-present, brutality common, and feats of astonishing courage and endurance occurred continually — all recorded against the background of a treacherous sea.

Historically, there are three main phases discerned by Dr. Murray-Smith: First the sealers, second the runaway convicts or "bolters," and third, "respectability".

During the first phase "the rocks ran red with the blood of butchered seals", and "it is worth remembering that the main Australian export was not wool, but seals."

With the exodus of the often tough and desperate American and Australian sealers, runaway convicts inhabited the islands. They lived with captured Aboriginal women who all too frequently were treated with depravity.

Government officials did much to remedy this situation, paving the way for the peaceful settlements which marked the third phase.

Today, King Island and Flinders Island in particular have thriving communities, This third phase however, was not entered without appalling loss of life.

The history of early immigration is frightening and often pathetic in accounts of ships and lives lost in the perilous waters of Bass Strait.

Lighthouses

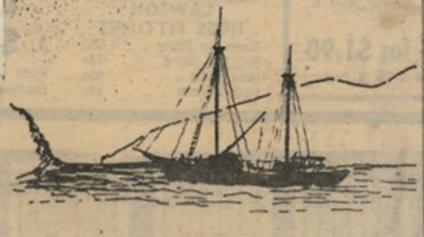

Gradually a number of lighthouses were built to aid navigation. Cape Otway, established in 1846, was the first.

Dr. Murray-Smith illustrated the second part of his address with a number of excellent slides. Of particular historical interest was one showing a top-masted schooner, "never to be seen again," which for more than 100 years carried oddments between the northern coast of Tasmania and the 'North Island', (see drawing).

Other slides were used by Dr. Murray-Smith to take his audience on an "expedition" from Port Albert to Deal Island.

Views of Cliffy Island, the first port of call, were perhaps the most dramatic.

This island known affectionately by seamen as 'the Alcatraz of Bass Strait,' with its harsh, imposing granite cliffs, utilises an 80 ft. winch (see drawing) to bring stores and supplies to the lighthouse keepers, and to launch the islands' dinghy.

Dr. Murray-Smith showed views of the Hogan Group of Islands and the Kent Group. Landing on both these groups is likely to be hazardous in all but certain conditions.

Of particular interest was a slide depicting Captain Brown's cottage on Deal Island (see drawing).

This is a relic which Dr. Murray-Smith would dearly like to see preserved and which has been placed in the 'B' category by the National Trust.

While there may have been many differing opinions on places to visit among Dr. Murray-Smith's audience, there was certainly no disagreement about the wish to see him write about his experiences in these areas.

"NAUGHTY MARIETTA" AT TEACHERS' COLLEGE

A musical occasion of especial local interest will be the presentation of "Naughty Marietta" by Frankston Teachers' College from Wednesday, November 22, to Saturday, November 25.

The college is fortunate this year in that passing through at the moment are some outstanding voices in the principal roles, one of whom, Don Wallis, played "Captain Dick" at Springvale recently, and was enthusiastically received.

Professional musicians have been engaged to enhance the beauties of Victor Herbert's score, and production is in the experienced hands of Gordon Brennan, well-known for his work with Peninsula Light Operatic Company.

Further news and pictures will be published shortly.

"Naughty Marietta"

(FRANKSTON TEACHERS' COLLEGE)

Victor Herbert's Naughty Marietta, a romantic musical of eighteenth century New Orleans, first produced in 1910 and given wide popularity by Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in the film version of 1935, was presented enthusiastically and colourfully by the Frankston Teachers' College at the College auditorium.

The whole college seemed to be in it, so crowded was the stage by the full company. It was impossible, therefore, to achieve discipline in chorus and ballet movements and deportment and in general the players had not been taught not to fidget. Most could not stand still, when necessary, but shifted uneasily and continually with feet and hands and let their eyes wander all over the place and around the audience, which gave the performance a very amateur air.

Better control was shown in the work of the musical director, John Gilfedder, who produced impressive results from singers, despite their natural limitations, and orchestra, which handled the score with charm. Distinction was given to the part for cello, Herbert's own instrument, of which he was a master.

Marietta was sung by Ingrid Wersching, who despite a vibration (perhaps nervous) in her first number, performed with pleasing purity her later numbers, notably "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Don Wallis, as Captain Dick Warrington managed his resources of voice well in the "Tramp! Tramp!" and "I'm Falling in Love With Someone" and other songs, and notable was the pleasant singing of Marie Carruthers, as the slave girl, Adah, in "Southern Moon."

The comedy roles had naturally good exponents in Greg Simonds, as Silas, particularly, and in Wendy Knowles, as Lizette (A Casket Girl), John Garnett (Rudolfo, a marionette proprietor), and John Davis (Lieutenant Governor). Quieter but promising was Russell Woodley, as his son.

There were attractive performances in small roles by Julie Leahy, Isabel Rolfe and Claudia Cox and by various others in the large company. Producer was Gordon Brennan.

GOOD KING WENCESLAS

Good King Wenceslas looked out On the Feast of Stephen, When the snow lay round about, Doop and crist and even: Brightly shone the moon that night, Though the frost was cruel, When a poor man came in sight, Gathering winter fuel.

2. 'Hither, page, and stand by me, If though know'st it, telling, Yonder peasant, who is he? Where and what his dwelling?' 'Sire, he lives a good league hence, Underneath the mountain, Right against the forest fence By Saint Agnes' fountain.

'Bring me flesh, and bring me wine, Bring me pine-logs hither: Thou and I will see him dine, When we bear them thither. Page and monarch, forth they went, Forth they went together; Through the rude wind's wild lament And the bitter weather.

- 4. 'Sire, the night is darker now,
 And the wind blows stronger;
 Fails my heart, I know not how;
 I can go no longer.'
 'Mark my footsteps, good my page;
 Tread thou in them boldly:
 Thou shalt find the winter's rage
 Freeze thy blood less coldly.'
- Therefore, Christian men, be sure,
 We who now will bless the poor,
 Shall yourselves find blessing.

THE FIRST NOWELL

1. The first Nowellthe Angel did say
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep
On a cold winter's night that was so deep.

Chorus: Nowel, Nowel, Nowel, Nowel Born is the King of Israel.

- They looked up and saw a star, Shining in the East, beyond them far, And to the earth it gave great light. And so it continued both day and night.
- 3. And by the light of the same star, Three wise men came from country far; To seek for a King was their intent And to follow the star wherever it went.
- 4. Then let us all with one accord, Sing praises to our Heavenly Lord, That hath made Heaven and earth of nought, And with his blood mankind has bought.

J. M. Neale, 1818-66

ONCE IN ROYAL DAVIDS CITY

- 1. Once in Royal David's City,
 Stood a lowly cattle shed,
 Where a Mother laid her Baby
 In a Manger for His bed;
 Mary was that Mother mild,
 Jesus Christ her little Child.
- 2. He came down to earth from Heaven
 Who is God and Lord of all,
 And his shelter was a stable,
 And his cradle was a stall;
 With the poor, and meak and lowly Lived on earth our Saviour Holy.
- And our eyesaat last shall see him,
 Through His own redeeming love,
 For that Child, so dear and gentle
 Is our Lord in Heav'n above;
 And He leads His children on,
 To the place where He is gone.

214 TEACHERS IN COLLEGE GRADUATION

Two hundred and fourteen students of the Frankston Teachers' College received their graduation certificates at an impressive ceremony conducted in the Moorabbin Town Hall last Wednesday.

Eighty-four had completed the threeyear trained infant teachers' course and a further 130 the two-year trained primary teachers' course.

The college principal, Mr. G. A. Jenkins, B.A., B.Com., B.Ed., M.A.C.E, welcomed the graduands, their relatives and friends as well as head masters and infant mistresses of training schools associated with the college.

Present as official visitors were the Assistant Director of Primary Education, Mr. E. L. Ryan, the Director of Child Health (Medical), School Medical Service, Dr. D. N. Fearon; the Head Master of Noble Park State School, Mr. S. G. Brown, representing the practising schools associated with the college; as well as the viceprincipal Mr. L. M. Bell; the college staff, and president and president-elect of the Students' Representative Council Mr. G. M. O'Toole and Mr. A. Vaughan.

Mr. Ryan welcomed the graduands to the community if some 30,000 teachers in the State Education service which could be expected to benefit from the new ideas these new teach ers would bring to the work of education.

He urged them to continue their studies so that they could qualify to fill the highest ranks in the Education Department.

The graduands were presented in groups by their tutors.

In his graduation address Dr. Fearon stressed the importance of co-operation between the various government departments associated with education so that the all-round welfare of the community may be promoted to its optimum level.

The graduates should realise that they had achieved a place of definite worth in the community.

Teachers must be able to adapt themselves to changing communities and changing times.

Their initial training must be regarded only as a beginning.

THERE are seven students at the Western Tyers State School. All of them belong to the Richards and the Pugleese families.

School No. 4603 is about 100 yards from the centre of the tiny hamlet of Morgan's Mill, 28 miles from Moe in Gippsland.

The students at the school are sons and daughters of timber cutters.

The school, like Morgan's Mill, is carved out of the bush. If it weren't for the blue smoke from the mill curling above the trees you could pass by and never know it existed.

Opened in July, 1942, it consists of a big airy room (ventilation comes from cracks between the floorboards) with a large open fireplace, and an adjoining porch.

You must watch your step in the little porch too, as the floorboards are loose and you might get your foot stuck.

Twenty - two - yearold Greg Lawrence, from Moorabbin, is teacher for the four boys and three girls in grades one, three, four, five and six.

Last year he was teaching at Dandenong West State School. He applied to teach at Western Tyers for two years, knowing how remote it was and never having visited it before.

Greg said: "I wanted a rural school so I could be my own boss. I have been here for two weeks and I am rapt about the school. The kids are great.

"I don't get lonely because I board in Moe and there are people coming and going at the mill all day and there is a daily mail delivery. On week - ends I can go fishing and shooting rabbits, foxes or deer."

Along with all the usual teaching aids in the classroom like black-boards. John and Betty reading cards and library books, is a motor mower. Periodically Greg has to reclaim the school playground from the encroaching bush.

The building is owned by Morgan's Mill and rented by the Education Department. A permanent school is not built because the community will move on when the timber runs out.

HISTORIC LINK AS TEACHERS WED

History attended the recent wedding of Lynette Anne O'Loughlin with Kevin Anthony Smith, both of Frankston, at St. Francis Xavier Church. The newlyweds are pictured.

More than half a century ago, the bride's grandmother was a bridesmaid at the marriage of the groom's grandmother, at St.

Arnaud, in central Victoria.

The bride is the daughter Mrs. A. O'Loughlin, iney Court, Franks Rodney Court, Frankston, and the late Mr. G. O'Loughlin, and is an infant grade teacher at Chelsea State School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Smith, of St. Arnaud, and is a teacher at Frankston Technical School.

For her wedding, bride chose a long frock crepe, topped with a fi crepe, topped with a full length coat of guipure lace A train of guipure lace from the shoulders of the and a beaded gown, and headband, matching pearls, held her long veil.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Patricia Dowsett, and Julie Gunn, of Highett. They wore full-Highett. They wore full-length frocks of white lace, with guipure lace jackets. Their red headbands matched their bouquets of nations.

Flowergirl was four-year old Lindy Bennett, and the pageboy was the bride's nephew, four-year-old Mark Dowsett.

Best man was Graeme Bath, of Horsham, and groomsman was Geoff Bath, Roberts, of Hamilton.

What about the 1360 new primary teachers, fresh out of teachers' colleges, who also begin their teaching lives next week?

Like 20-year-old Susan Ackroyd, of East Bentleigh, right, who begins her career at Bentleigh West primary school.

Susan, who went to MacRobertson High, and Frankston Teachers' College, will take a primary class—the first class she's had of her own.

"I'm feeling rather dubious," Susan admits, but one advantage is that we're all new and we'll be learning and discovering together.

"I intend to be as firm as I can the first day, to let them know who's boss.

SENTENCED - FOR SINGING

JOELLE MASON has been sent to gaol five times in the past year and a half.

But . . . as her only crime is being a singer and an entertainer, she doesn't mind how often she goes.

"The visits are good fun and the prisoners make excellent audiences," Joelle said.

"Even if they are a sort of captive audience." Joelle, a primary school teacher of Carnegie, became interested in charity work in gaols when a friend invited her to take part in a group concert at Bendigo gaol last year.

Now she believes that prison work is one of the most interesting and rewarding experiences she has had as a singer.

"I have been to Bendigo, Boolarra and French Island prisons and have found the prisoners in each place are very attentive and like singing.

"When I visited French Island the prisoners were so interested that they voted to give up their day's visiting time to stay and hear us perform."

Joelle admits, however, that at first she did have a few reservations about going into a prison to

"Being the only girl in the company I was scared about what would happen when I had to face the prisoners," she said.

"But it's not like you would expect after seeing American gangster movies."

Joelle said that one of the hardest things about prison shows is trying to avoid songs and subjects that might offend or hurt the prisoners' feelings.

"I remember at our first show we sang, without thinking 'All Our Trials Will Soon Be Over'," Joelle said.

"The prisoners immediately related it to themselves and we were greeted with a chorus of sniggers."

Joelle started singing

By NOEL PARROTT

at Teachers' College where she also taught herself to play the guitar and developed her interest in charity work.

At College she became a member of a singing group which sang at concerts and coffee lounges around Melbourne.

Since leaving the group she has had experience singing at hotels, on television and with the Australian Folklore Council.

At present Joelle's most enthusiastic audiences are the children she teaches at the Glen Waverley Heights State School.

"I often sing to them and play my guitar or the piano," she said.

"I suppose, however, that they are really just another sort of 'captive audience'."

Joelle's singing has had plenty of encouragement from her father who is an entertainer and a compere. "Encouragement but not help," Joelle said.

"I believe it is necessary for a person to succeed on their own merit, without assistance from friends or relatives with influence."

"My father understands this and realises that I have to make it on my own or not at all."

In her spare time Joelle writes her own songs and composes. One day she hopes to be able to have some of her work published.

Her plans for the future include marriage and an overseas trip.

"I am getting married in December and my husband and I intend to go to India when he has finished his university studies," she said, "We hope to get teaching jobs in India but if I can I want to do some night club work as well.

"After India we will travel around the world."

Rings exchanged

Wedding rings, borne on a small yellow cushion, carried by page boy Denis Smith (the bride's nephew), were exchanged by Mr. Darcy Russell and his bride, formerly Miss Helen Gibson, at their marriage last Saturday week, celebrated with Nuptial Mass at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church, Frankston.

The Rev. Father John Elsun officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Gibson, of Denbigh St., Frankston.

She wore a full-length sheath frock of white crepe with three-quarter sleeves, trimmed with guipure lace let into the sleeves. Lace trimmed the bottom of the skirt. Tiny white flowers formed a coronet which held her long two-tiered veil, bowed with satin ribbon.

A sheath of white carnations, trimmed with white trailing ribbon, was carried by the bride, who wore a gold chain around her neck, with a tiny cross hanging from the centre, set with a cultured pearl — a gift from the 'groom.

Her bridesmoid was Miss Francis Curtin, who was a school friend at Kilbreda College, Mentone. She wore a sheath frock of bright yellow crepe, with three-quarter sleeves, featuring box pleating of the same material and narrow ribbon, running between the pleats, around the bottom of the skirt.

The groom, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell, of Kick St., Bendigo, had as best man Mr. Robert Russell, his elder brother. Pageboy Denis Smith wore yellow pants to match the bridemaid's frock, his white blouse had a frill down the front, and his long sleeves were frilled at the end. He wore long white sox and black shoes.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli, gypsophilia and yellow dahlias. Mr. McDonald sung hymns during the Mass.

The wedding breakfast was at Villa St. Clare, during which Miss Petrie played the pland and Mr. Peter Russell sang.

On return from their touring honeymoon, the newlyweds will live in Shepparton, where Darcy is in business and Helen is teaching.

Helen trained at Frankston Teachers! College, where she obtained her Infant Teachers Certificate. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson have been residents of Frankston for 24 years, and Mr. Gibson was at the English, Scottish and Australian Bank, Frankston, for many years.

BRIDEMARRIED BY FATHER

The father of the 'groom, Mr. J. W. Lewis, officiated at the wedding of Lynette Jean Cutts and Kenneth Jeffrey Lewis at Frankston Church of Christ on Saturday, December 9.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Cutts, of Mouyong, Barmah Crt., Baxter.

The 'groom is the son of Mr and Mrs J. W. Lewis, of Payneham, South Australia.

Lynette wore a heavy linen, A-line frock trimmed with bands of guipure lace on the hemline, with long bell-shaped sleeves. Her long train fell from the shoulder and was bordered with guipure to match her frock.

Her long, two-tiered veil fell from a domed pillbox of linen covered with guipure lace. She carried a snowball bouquet of carnations and stephanotis.

The bride's sisters Jiltian and Cheryl, and the groom's sister, Janette, atended as bridesmaids.

Their frocks also were of white linen and made on similar lines to that of the oride. They had three bands of narrow pink ribpon on the hemline and bordering their short bell sleeves. They wore bands of pink ribbon in their hair and carried snowball bouquets of carnations and pink Cecil Brunner roses.

Best man was the groom's brother, Graeme, and groomsmen were the groom's brothers, Ian and Robert.

Many of the 94 guests who attended the reception at Wingham Lodge, which followed the midafternoon ceremony, came from South Australia and New South Wales.

The couple will make their home in South Australia.

The two-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature copy of the bride's bouquet.
