This sample course map includes a major in Physiology and a major in Biochemistry with complementary studies in Immunology and Microbiology, and two units from Arts because they sound interesting. The units highlighted in yellow represent some of the units that must be studied to be eligible for Graduate Entry Medicine.