

Invitation

Stephen Marich Annual Lecture in Railway Engineering

Monash Institute of Railway Technology (IRT) extends an invitation to the

2021 Stephen Marich Annual Lecture in Railway Engineering

on Wednesday 3rd March 2021 from 6.00pm to 9.30pm

at the Pavilion, Arts Centre Melbourne

100 St Kilda Road, Melbourne.

The Stephen Marich Annual Lecture in Railway Engineering honours the contribution of Dr Stephen Marich to the railway industry over a period of 40 years. This is the 8th annual lecture as part of this series and is a key forum for sharing deep technical knowledge about railway engineering from leading experts in railway technology.

The 2021 Stephen Marich Annual Lecture in Railway Engineering entitled “Improving the Integrity of Rail Welds in Australia’s Rail Networks” will be delivered by Mr Peter Mutton, Monash Institute of Railway Technology. Peter has over 40 years’ experience in the Australian rail industry related to rail and wheel materials and rail welding procedures, with a particular focus on improving the reliability of flashbutt and aluminothermic welds in freight, passenger and heavy haul systems.

The event is also a major networking opportunity, bringing together industry, academia and government representatives involved in railway technology and management.

This event is endorsed by the Australasian Railway Association (ARA), Railway Technical Society of Australasia (RTSA) and Rail Track Association Australia (RTAA).

This free lecture and networking event will be of interest to anyone involved in the railway industry. This is an exclusive event with limited seats, registration and early RSVP is essential to avoid disappointment.

RSVP for the Stephen Marich Annual Lecture in Railway Engineering is Friday 19th February 2021 via the registration button.

For enquiries, please contact:

Connie Glover

Telephone: + 61 3 9905 1880 / +61 417 127 599

Email: connie.glover@monash.edu

Please advise if you have any dietary or access requirements.

In conjunction with this lecture, Monash IRT will be conducting a Three Day Rail Welding Short Course starting from Wednesday 3rd March to Friday 5th March 2021 at Monash University.

Registration details for the course will be sent out shortly.

Expressions of interest are welcome via email to connie.glover@monash.edu.