

PLAZA

PLAZA will seek to formulate an architectural project that provides a framework for both domestic and productive spaces at the edge of the university campus. Through seeing, making, and drawing, we will explore form and space—guided by instinct and defined by technique. The ambition is to reveal inherent qualities from both provided and discovered sources, instigating a field of forces that guides design decisions. Early explorations within the studio will unfold through the layering of parts or elements that constitute an architectural project in an unrefined manner. The aim is not to labour over resolution, but to work quickly with ideas as they emerge.
