What I loved about the Bachelor of Arts at Monash was that it is so career-focused.

I did a two-month internship at Inclover Magazine, where I got to create news reports for social media and the website, attend virtual press conferences, and write articles for the printed magazine issue.

I also completed an internship with the Australian Centre for Education and Training for four months. I was able to gain insight into corporate social responsibility initiatives and digital operations, as well as develop my project management skills."

LEARNING ABROAD AMAZING EXPERIENCES OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

Monash Arts has the most extensive overseas study opportunities of any university in Australia. Whether you go for two weeks or two semesters, there's a program to suit your interests, curiosities and study needs.

We have partnerships with over 150 universities worldwide, a study centre in Prato, Italy, and a campus in Malaysia. As a first year Monash Arts student, you'll have access to Monash's ground breaking Global Immersion Guarantee.

STUDYING OVERSEAS GIVES YOU AN EDGE

Research shows that students with international study experience:

- have better grades throughout their degree
- are more employable once they graduate
- earn more throughout their career.

You'll expand your worldview through experiencing different cultures and ways of doing things.

You'll build your self-confidence, and be more adaptable and independent. You'll also develop skills in effective communication, collaboration and time management.

WHERE CAN I GO?

Arts study tours

Programs vary from two to six weeks. They're taught intensively so you can complete one or more units/subjects in that time. They run between semesters, which means you can continue to travel afterwards and potentially finish your degree sooner.

Some examples of what you could do include:

- undertaking archaeological fieldwork and excavation in Italy
- receiving formal and applied training in qualitative and ethnographic field research methods in Malaysia
- mastering Mandarin in China
- trace the contours of the shifting economic and political relations of the Asia-Pacific region and Europe.

Arts semester in Prato

Make the Monash Prato Centre your European study base. Close to Florence in the picturesque landscape of Tuscany, the Monash Prato Centre is located in the beautiful 18th-century Palazzo Vaj right in the centre of Prato.

The program is flexible, immersive and enriching. Divided into three-by-four-week intensive blocks, you can study for the full 12 weeks or take the option of including some travel time and study for four or eight weeks. Embrace the opportunity to learn from some of the world's most renowned international scholars as you study subjects such as:

- Italian language intensive
- Sustainable Tuscany: Tradition, innovation and entrepreneurship
- Screening Europe: Transnational histories, narratives and identities.

Intensive language programs

Studying overseas as part of your language major is a great way to immerse yourself in your chosen language and culture. Monash Arts offers a variety of faculty-led and endorsed language programs available to language students for credit.

Intercampus exchange to Monash Malaysia

Located in Bandar Sunway (18 kilometres from Kuala Lumpur), Monash Malaysia was Monash's first international campus. Intercampus exchange to Monash Malaysia is available to all Monash Australia students, provided they have room within their course. Generous funding is available for this program.

Exchange to a partner institution

An exchange program involves studying with one of our partner universities around the world. You can go on exchange for one or two semesters. Financial assistance is available and there are no extra tuition fees. You can choose from more than 150 universities in 30 countries.

Study Abroad

If your preferred overseas destination is not a Monash partner university, you can still choose to go there on Study Abroad. You'll pay the host university's tuition fees for the time you're there, and you're still able to access financial assistance to support your travel.

INTERNSHIPS

An internship is often the first step of your career. You'll have the opportunity to undertake an internship for course credit in the final year of your course through our Industry Experience (IE) program. We'll help match you to a role that's aligned with your skills and interests, giving you the chance to build networks and make contacts for your career development. Visit monash.edu/arts/industry-experience

Bachelor of ARTS

Workplaces of the future need innovative leaders who can see the bigger picture, with the human-focused and transferable skills you'll gain in a humanities and social sciences degree.

The Bachelor of Arts is designed to give you maximum flexibility and choice. With over thirty areas of study to choose from, our comprehensive arts degree is flexible, allowing you to design a unique course structure aligned with your worldview and career objectives. The course is built around deeply enriching experiences, and offers you four Professional Futures units through which to develop your unique graduate profile. You can choose from local and international internships, professional engagements and entrepreneurial opportunities, and the choice of more than 50 global immersion programs, preparing you to live and work in complex and culturally diverse environments, while building a network of like-minded peers.

The major

Eight units make up your major. These units are from the same area of study² – for example, sociology, international relations or history. There are many units to choose from but there are also some compulsory units. These are called gateway, cornerstone and capstone units, which have been designed to help you consolidate your learning so you can get the most out of your major.

Gateway: a first-year foundation unit introducing you to the major.

Cornerstone: a second-year unit that focuses on making sure you have a solid grasp of your major.

Capstone: a third-year unit where you demonstrate advanced knowledge of your major. This could be a supervised research project or an internship with an industry partner.

Arts electives/minor

A minor is four units from the same area of study. In a Bachelor of Arts, you can choose to complete a minor or four individual units from your chosen areas.

Professional Futures

Professional Futures is a distinct, career-oriented program. Customise your own professional journey according to your career interest across four areas, and build the skills and abilities employers value and seek.

Global immersion: Broaden your knowledge and life experience by participating in an overseas study program, such as the Global Immersion Guarantee (GIG), or a semester abroad.

Intercultural expertise: Learn to recognise your own cultural values and biases, and build skills to thrive in globalised workplaces and communities.

Professional experience: Through industry internships and placements, create networks and skills for your career development.

Innovation capability: Cultivate an innovation mindset as you develop your creative and enterprising abilities.

Free electives

There are eight free elective units with which you can study units from Arts or from another area such as Information Technology, Science or Business. You could also use these electives to engage in industry experience or study overseas. Alternatively, you could add a second major which gives you two areas of expertise.

Taking advantage of the flexible structure

While there are aspects of the course structure that are fixed (for example, you must complete a major, Arts electives, and Professional Futures units), there's still plenty of flexibility. This means you can design your course to suit your needs and interests as they evolve.

Some examples of what we mean by 'flexible' are:

- you can decide your major in second-year
- you can complete four Arts electives or a minor
- you can use the eight free electives to make up a second major, two minors, a minor plus electives, or just electives.

Global Immersion Guarantee

As a Bachelor of Arts student, you'll have access to the Monash Global Immersion Guarantee – an opportunity to spend two weeks studying in one of a variety of destinations, with airfares and accommodation covered as part of your degree.

At Monash, I learned how to explain a background issue and examine a problem from different perspectives and then find potential solutions. This skill is central to my career right now. BACHELOR OF ARTS DOUBLE DEGREES

Double the degree. Double the experience.
Double the future careers.

A double degree doesn't mean double the work; in fact, it takes two years less to complete than if you studied the courses separately.

A double degree empowers you to tailor your studies to your dream profession – for example, working as an international development lawyer (Arts/Laws), an environmental journalist (Arts/Science), a business manager (Arts/Business) or a music critic (Arts/Music).

You'll broaden your knowledge across two different fields, diversify your skill base, double your network of contacts, and expand your career opportunities.

Diploma of LANGUAGES + Diploma of LIBERAL ARTS

An Arts diploma allows you to take additional studies in Arts while completing a Monash single or double bachelor's degree.

What is a diploma?

A diploma is an additional course of study taken alongside your bachelor's degree. It's the equivalent of eight units, which makes up a major. You'll cover first, second and third year units. Diplomas are studied alongside your degree/s and add an extra year of study.

Who's eligible?

Monash students who are studying an eligible bachelor's single or double degree.

Why study a diploma?

By studying a Diploma of Languages or a Diploma of Liberal Arts, you'll:

- Diversify and deepen your skills and knowledge in another area of study
- Expand your career options
- Continue with an area of study you have a keen interest in, or
- Try something completely different, like a new language.

Diploma of Languages

This diploma allows you to study Chinese Mandarin, Indonesian, Japanese, Korean or European languages (French, German, Italian, Spanish). There are different entry levels so you can commence as a beginner in the language or with a language background. If your language ability is higher than beginner level, you'll sit a language entry level test to determine the best place for you to continue with your language.

Diploma of Liberal Arts

Expand your studies by choosing any Arts area of study available as a major³, except for languages which you can take in a Diploma of Languages.

Applying for entry

You can apply for entry to either of these diplomas only after you've accepted your offer into your main Monash Bachelor degree.

Broaden your career options

Students choose to study Monash Arts diplomas to enhance their future career opportunities. For example, Law students strengthen their specialisation through pursuing criminology, international business students gain a competitive edge by studying a language, and biomedical students increase their career choices through journalism.

“

I chose to do a double degree because I didn't really know exactly what I wanted to do after university. I knew that I was passionate about science, but I really wanted to build on my other skills.

Doing a Monash Arts degree gave me a broad set of choices, so I could do whatever I wanted to do. I appreciated that flexibility.

My Arts degree has helped me with my communication and research skills. Having communication skills is important in my role because I'm doing technical work, which other people don't necessarily have the background to understand. I need to be able to work with those people to determine the question they want to solve, then explain how we're going to work out the answer, and then communicate that answer back to them.”

Bachelor + Master's PROGRAM

With Monash Arts you can graduate with a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in just four¹ years. After completing two years of your bachelor's degree, and providing you're a high-achieving student, you can take master's-level units as your electives in third-year.

You'll then complete the rest of your master's degree in fourth-year. You can match your Monash Arts bachelor's degree with a master's degree in:

- Applied Linguistics
- Bioethics
- Communications and Media Studies
- Cultural and Creative Industries
- International Development Practice
- International Relations
- International Relations and Journalism¹
- International Sustainable Tourism Management
- Interpreting and Translation Studies
- Journalism
- Public Policy
- Strategic Communications Management.

The benefits

At Monash Arts we're committed to providing you with as many opportunities and as much flexibility as possible to allow you to maximise your study options. The Bachelor + Master's program allows you to:

- Fast-track your studies and graduate with an undergraduate and postgraduate degree in just four years¹ – instead of five
- Take advantage of the most extensive Bachelor + Master's offering in Australia
- Make yourself more employable with two degrees and specialist knowledge
- Save on fees by continuing to pay bachelor degree fees when you start your master's in third year, leaving you with only one year of master's fees.

HOW IT WORKS

Step 1	Enter an eligible Monash Arts single bachelor's degree (Arts, Criminology, Global Studies, Media Communication, Music or Politics, Philosophy and Economics)
Step 2	Follow any major or specialisation sequence and successfully complete two years of study (full-time equivalent)
Step 3	During your final semester of your second year of the bachelor's degree, as a high achieving student (65% or higher overall average), you're invited to apply to transition into your chosen Arts master's degree
Step 4	Once accepted into the program you'll commence your master's units during the third year of your study
Step 5	You'll complete one more year of master's units

During my studies, I took advantage of the internship opportunities available so I could apply the skills and practical knowledge I gained from the Bachelor + Master's program in professional work environments.

Since graduating, I have secured a job as a Policy Officer at the Australian Primary Health Care Nurses Association, where I completed one of my internships. The networking opportunities and hands-on experience I gained throughout my degree helped me strategically position myself in the workforce, leading to an exciting career straight out of uni.”

GLOBAL IMMERSION GUARANTEE

As a Bachelor of Criminology student, you'll have access to the Monash Global Immersion Guarantee – an opportunity to spend two weeks studying in one of a variety of destinations, with airfares and accommodation covered as part of your degree. For more information, visit monash.edu/global-immersion-guarantee

PSYCHOLOGY AND CRIMINOLOGY

If you're interested in studying psychology alongside your criminology degree, you'll want to enrol in the Bachelor of Arts/ Bachelor of Criminology double degree. This double degree gives you the option to take the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC) accredited psychology extended major.

Bachelor of CRIMINOLOGY

Improve responses to crime and criminality.

Criminology is the study of crime and social control. Crime – how we define it, how we understand its causes and the ways we respond to it – provides a window into society's challenges, values and aspirations.

This course offers students a world-leading program delivered by a team of outstanding teachers and researchers.

You'll consider the local, national and global aspects of crime and justice, and become familiar with a range of lenses for understanding and assessing the impact of society's changing responses to crime and justice. You'll gain an understanding of victimisation and perpetration, inequality and its impacts, and approaches to understanding crime. Throughout the course you'll develop your capabilities via the key themes of expert knowledge, global reach and focus, and collaboration and innovation.

You'll learn about crime committed by individuals, groups, organisations and states, and the mechanisms of the criminal justice system, including police, courts and corrections. Options are available to develop knowledge of specific criminal concerns, such as sexual violence, gendered violence, punishment, criminal justice processes, marginalisation, drugs, cybercrime, risk and surveillance, victimisation and perpetration, youth crime, and crime prevention and transnational justice practices.

Expert knowledge

With its own advisory board, the Bachelor of Criminology brings into play the advice and dynamic perspectives of industry experts, meaning you'll benefit from current insights into industry developments.

Global reach and focus

Throughout the course you'll be challenged to apply abstract knowledge to real-world problems of crime and justice, and develop solutions. You'll also have the opportunity to travel internationally and meet criminal justice experts from across the world through a selection of exclusive field trips.

The field trips offer a truly immersive learning experience to complement the academic knowledge you'll gain in class, allowing you to engage in context and gain a genuine understanding of the human realities behind the study of criminology.

Collaboration and innovation

Through multiple opportunities for engagement with industry, you'll gain the experience needed to be workplace ready. In the professional project unit, you'll work closely with our industry partners, opening up new pathways and opportunities for your career, and capping off your criminology study by bringing together your knowledge and skills in your final year. The professional project features real-life scenarios, and your work will be assessed by both academics and industry experts.

Further opportunities and internships are available to you through our Industry Experience internships, both in Australia and around the world, so you can get hands-on experience while you gain study credit.

Double degrees

The Bachelor of Criminology can be paired with the:

- Bachelor of Arts
- Bachelor of Information Technology
- Bachelor of Laws (Honours).

Free electives

There are eight free elective units which can be taken from Arts or from another area such as Information Technology, Science or Business. You could also use these electives to engage in industry experience or study overseas.

Bachelor of CRIMINOLOGY AND POLICING

Crime is a complex phenomena, which requires it to be viewed from various perspectives. In a joint-venture with Victoria Police, the Bachelor of Criminology and Policing is the only course of its kind in Australia.

In this three-year program, you'll complete the core requirements of the Monash Bachelor of Criminology, and have the opportunity to apply to undertake a Diploma of Policing, to be completed at the Victoria Police Academy in your third year.

The breadth and depth of our Bachelor of Criminology is a great foundation for anyone considering a career in policing or criminal justice. You'll gain an understanding of crime, the broader context in which crime occurs, the drivers of criminal behaviour, and the limits of formal and informal responses to crime.

You'll consider the local, national and global aspects of crime and justice, and become familiar with a range of lenses for understanding and assessing the impact of society's changing responses to crime and justice. You'll gain an understanding of victimisation and perpetration, inequality and its impacts, and approaches to understanding crime. Throughout the course you'll develop your capabilities via the key themes of expert knowledge, global reach and focus, and collaboration and innovation.

Additional selection requirements

You'll also need to submit a supplementary form as part of the application process and complete a police check. You'll be required to apply for entry into the Diploma of Policing at the end of your first year of studies. If you're not accepted into the Diploma of Policing, you'll be transferred into the Bachelor of Criminology.

Expert knowledge

You'll learn about crime committed by individuals, groups, organisations and states, and the mechanisms of the criminal justice system, including police, courts and corrections.

Options are available to develop knowledge of specific criminal concerns, such as sexual violence, gendered violence, punishment, criminal justice processes, marginalisation, drugs, cybercrime, risk and surveillance, victimisation and perpetration, youth crime, and crime prevention and transnational justice practices.

Diploma of Policing

The Bachelor of Criminology and Policing is a pathway to your policing career. This course will provide you with the chance to apply to join Victoria Police and if successful, continue your studies at the Victoria Police Academy, where you'll be employed as a police recruit and gain practical experience and go on to work in the police force post training.

From day one of your degree, Victoria Police will organise a police mentor for you, giving you every opportunity to be successful with your Diploma of Policing application in second year. While studying at the Victoria Police Academy in your third year you'll also receive mentorship from Monash Criminology staff to support you in completing you Monash units.

Successful students will complete two separate qualifications, the Monash Bachelor of Criminology and the Victoria Police Diploma of Policing, increasing your employability.

Bachelor of

GLOBAL STUDIES

If you aspire to become a leader in creating social change, then this is the course for you. You'll learn how to critically analyse global challenges facing cultures and communities around the world, and how to devise imaginative and well-informed solutions to help solve them.

The Bachelor of Global Studies has many exciting features, including core units on leadership development, project-based learning, internship placements with industries and organisations who are leading advocates for social change around the world, a broad range of electives that train you to think across different disciplines, and an overseas study component.

Overseas study

Integral to this course is overseas study that can be completed across a full semester or taken intensively. You could take units offered at a Monash international location, join one of our many study tours, or study at one of our prestigious partner universities. It's compulsory to take at least three overseas study units, but you can take more if you want.

Engaging with industry

With its own advisory board, the Bachelor of Global Studies is in a unique position to draw on the advice and perspectives of industry experts. The board consists of professionals from diverse backgrounds with direct links to business, government and the social sector. They provide vital guidance, advice and feedback to inform our program development and to ensure the course delivers the best outcomes for you.

Global Scholars Program

The Global Scholars Program challenges you to engage with your international experience, to step outside and reflect on the people and culture of your chosen destination and to return to Monash as part of a growing networking of past and present Global Scholars. There are 15 x $3000 scholarships available and are exclusive to Bachelor of Global Studies students.

Double degrees

The Bachelor of Global Studies can be taken as a double degree with the:

- Bachelor of Commerce
- Bachelor of Laws (Honours)
- Bachelor of Science
- Bachelor of Information Technology.

Industry Experience (IE) program

There are many opportunities within the course to take an IE internship, where you can apply your knowledge to a professional work environment and gain valuable experience and insights. IE opportunities are available with a wide range of organisations and count as credit towards your degree.

Course structure

Four core units on 'Leadership, culture and globalisation': These units are exclusive to the Bachelor of Global Studies and are taken over three years. You'll learn about forms of leadership, drivers of social change and how to apply your learning in practical and professional real-life contexts.

Classes are mainly workshops where you'll engage in problem-based learning and develop skills in creativity, teamwork, cross-cultural collaboration, critical thinking, self-learning and analytical writing.

Twelve units from one of the following specialisations with a minimum of three units taken overseas:

- Intercultural studies
- Human rights
- International relations
- International studies.

Eight free elective units:

With these free electives you can study units from Arts or from another area such as Information Technology, Science or Business. You could also use these electives to engage in industry experience or study overseas.

Specialisations

You'll choose one of the following areas to specialise in and if you like, you can choose another one of these areas to study in your free electives.

Intercultural studies

Extend your studies of leadership, culture and globalisation by focusing on communication across cultural borders. By studying one of eight internationally important languages – Chinese Mandarin, Indonesian, Japanese, Korean, French, German, Italian or Spanish – you'll deepen your cross-cultural skills and knowledge. All languages are available for beginners through to those with proficiency. You'll also study topics such as managing intercultural communication, and the skills you build will enable you to apply your knowledge in real-world contexts.

Human rights

In the era of globalisation, one of the most important concepts in international affairs is human rights. What are human rights? Are human rights culturally relative? How can human rights be justified? You'll learn how human rights help to address issues such as global poverty, unequal access to medicine, warfare, terrorism, children's rights, humanitarian intervention, torture, surveillance and more.

International relations

What are the dynamics of global politics and economics? Gain an understanding of the relationships between political institutions, international organisations, and governmental and non-governmental actors. Grasp evidence-based explanations to study war and conflict, development, financial and other crises at a global level. You'll undertake in-depth study of topics of contemporary significance such as terrorism and political violence, global governance, international security and foreign policy.

International studies

In order to be competitive in the international marketplace of products, ideas and knowledge, we need to understand how people experience different cultures. International studies develops this understanding by exploring the issues and events that have shaped and continue to shape our world. You'll examine such diverse topics as the role of cities as drivers of change, migrant and refugee experiences, power and poverty, and tradition and popular culture. In doing so, you'll develop a solid understanding of European and Asian cultural studies, and of networks of relations between Europe, Asia and Australia.

I thought that the Global Studies degree not only ticked the box in terms of my interest in international relations, but it also focused on those skills and passions that I have for wanting to help others as well.

Throughout my Global Studies degree, it was all about learning the applicable skills and focusing on real-world issues – and we were often tasked with coming up with solutions to these problems.”

Bachelor of
MEDIA COMMUNICATION

A degree for today's dynamic media world, the Bachelor of Media Communication addresses the growing demand for graduates with new and diverse skills in communication, and a critical understanding of the role of media in all aspects of our lives.

You'll be part of a new generation of thinkers and future-driven media and communication professionals who'll challenge convention and devise solutions that will take us into the next century.

Graduate with a portfolio to show employers

From day one, you'll develop practical experience and work-ready skills to build a portfolio of real work throughout your course. This could be projects such as a documentary, short film or digital marketing campaign, depending on your interest area. The result is tangible pieces of work you can take out and show to potential employers.

What you'll study

The course comprises core units, a specialisation and electives. You can tailor it to suit your interests by choosing your specialisation and electives. In your final year you can do either an internship or a professional project.

Double degrees

The Bachelor of Media Communication can be paired with the:

- Bachelor of Art History and Curating
- Bachelor of Business
- Bachelor of Design
- Bachelor of Fine Art
- Bachelor of Marketing.

Industry Experience (IE) program

If you're interested in gaining valuable work experience, you can apply for an IE internship through our extensive network of industry partners within Australia and around the world. The internship runs in the final year of your course. It'll give you the opportunity to build networks and make contacts for your career development.

Free electives

There are eight free electives in the course. That means you'll have the flexibility to take units from another discipline within Arts, such as politics or a language, or from another faculty such as Business, Information Technology or Science. These electives will complement your specialisation and add diversity to your skill set, making you stand out from your peers.

Core units

Media challenges

This unit addresses the great media challenges of our time. Learn how to critically analyse and think strategically about how to tackle today's problems, as well as those that lie ahead.

Communicating in the digital era

Become proficient in areas such as video production, broadcasting, news reporting, advertising and social media. Learn to combine critical skills in digital literacy with practical skills in media production to develop your overall digital knowledge.

Media practice labs

With our industry standard, purpose built Media Lab, you'll have the opportunity to experience what it's like to work in a professional media environment right on campus. Experiment with different kinds of technology – from working in live and post-production TV studios, or the latest radio broadcast facilities.

Professional placement

In your final year you'll have the opportunity to bring together your in-depth knowledge and skills with either an internship or professional project.

Specialisations

There are four specialisations to choose from. You'll start first year with two specialisations and decide in second year which one to pursue as your primary specialisation.

Journalism

Make the news and make stories that matter. Spanning digital, audio, video and print media, this specialisation makes use of the Monash Media Lab to give you the practical and creative skills required to excel in a rewarding journalism career.

Media

You'll become a true media expert in today's fast-evolving world, building skills and knowledge in media research, management, communication and policy. You'll develop skills in media analysis that have applications across a wide range of professional contexts – from social media strategy in organisations to media management and communication, and media policy.

Public relations

You'll learn how to research, develop, apply then evaluate communication strategies. You'll develop global perspectives, understand the importance of the management of stakeholder relationships and reputation, acquire skills in public opinion analysis, learn to identify and manage organisational issues, and develop a crisis management plan.

This specialisation also provides you with the skills required to research, plan and implement a strategic public relations campaign.

You'll have the opportunity to work with real clients where you'll gain insights into ethical communication practice as well as the skills needed for a professional career in public relations.

Screen

Screen industries, technologies and cultures are changing faster than ever. This specialisation gives you the knowledge to understand these transformations, navigating how film, television and newer screen formats have led to and function within contemporary media ecologies.

You'll study an extensive range of units. Looking at global and local film cultures, you'll examine the power and influence screen has to share stories, and its ability to influence and change society.

The screen specialisation also develops your practical video production skills relevant to a broad range of media platforms and screen cultures.

The highlight of this course has been doing all the practical work. The biggest thing is to utilise the facilities and the equipment here, because there's just so much and everyone is really welcoming and open for you to use it."

Specialisations

Music performance – Classical performance or Jazz and Improvisation

Available to those with strong musical aptitude in classical or jazz performance, this specialisation offers you the rigour and richness required to put you on the path to professional music performance success. You'll acquire an assured instrumental or vocal technique and perform in a variety of ensembles, in addition to solo work. You'll have the opportunity to take part in one of our study tours to New York or to the Monash Prato Centre in Italy.

Popular music

Designed for popular music performers and creators of the future. In addition to developing practical performance skills and stagecraft, you'll learn how to engage with a broad range of tools, performance styles and contexts representative of the popular music industry.

You'll start by developing techniques and practice strategies on your principal instrument or voice across a range of musical styles and repertoires. These skills will be applied in both solo and ensemble performance contexts in song-writing, live and recording environments. You'll have the opportunity to conceptualise and create a live performance and recording project under the guidance of expert teachers within your chosen musical style and/or context.

Composition and music technology

In this specialisation you'll develop skills in composition and music technology for acoustic and electronic instruments, song-writing and music for other media such as film and video games. You'll have the opportunity to collaborate with performance students, write for visiting international artists and make your own recording projects. Through our partnership with the Melbourne Electronic Sound Studio (MESS), you'll have access to vintage electronic equipment.

Our ongoing program of local, national and international visiting artists and workshops means you'll create established contacts with industry and be prepared for global career opportunities.

Performance opportunities

Monash is renowned for its performance opportunities and we have a diverse range of small and large ensembles, including piano ensembles, choral groups (gospel, contemporary and classical), electronic laptop, new music, string sinfonia, wind symphony, funk, pop, Latin jazz, Gamelan, small jazz ensembles (including Australian jazz and Brazilian) as well as the Monash Art Ensemble and the Monash Academy Orchestra.

Bachelor of POLITICS, PHILOSOPHY AND ECONOMICS

Developed by Monash's world-renowned politics, philosophy and economics professors, this course is designed for deep thinkers who want to have a real impact on shaping our society.

Core study requirements of the Bachelor of Politics, Philosophy and Economics will develop your ability to think critically about analysis, strategy and leadership and you'll learn how to transform big ideas into tangible results. You'll engage with researchers and global leaders to hone the industry relevant abilities needed to thrive in a world defined by constant technological, environmental, political and population change.

An Industry Advisory Board guides the direction and development of the course, ensuring that all units are informed by expert insider knowledge.

There are 20 x $3000 merit grants available for commencing Bachelor of Politics, Philosophy and Economics students. For more information, visit monash.edu/scholarships

Core units

Big ideas in politics, philosophy and economics

Engage with the big ideas that have shaped the world and the emerging ideas that seek to alter it. This unit introduces major ideas in politics, philosophy and economics in an innovative multidisciplinary learning environment. You'll comprehend and analyse the inter-relationships between politics and the good life, freedom and the economy, and how we know what we know in order to behave ethically in a globalised society.

Policy analysis in politics, philosophy and economics

Tackle real-world contemporary policy challenges by examining statistical and data-driven evidence and practical policy responses. Adopting the role of policy-maker, you'll learn how to address concerns like economic efficiency, justice and fairness, and political feasibility.

Strategic reasoning in politics, philosophy and economics

Refine your structured and strategic ways of thinking about – and beyond – contemporary issues. Taking uncertainty and disruption as enduring elements of our world, you'll identify risks and opportunities and advance reasoned and evidence-based arguments to achieve concrete outcomes.

Leadership and change in politics, philosophy and economics

Apply your multidisciplinary knowledge to real-world scenarios in real-world locations. After completing this unit, you'll have proven your ability to transition the workplace by demonstrating your capacity to identify emerging issues and articulate ways beyond current impasses.

Course structure

You'll be required to complete six gateway (introductory) units from all three specialisations in your first year of study. One specialisation must be nominated at the end of first year. The gateway units from this section will be credited to the specialisation, resulting in twelve specialisation units. You'll complete four units in Analysis, Strategy and Leadership and you'll have eight free electives which can be taken from Arts or from another area such as Information Technology, Science or Business.

Industry Experience (IE) program

IE internships form a valuable element of this course, empowering you to gain real world experience and shape your professional networks.

Overseas study

During your second year, you'll have the opportunity to embark on an exclusive study tour. This study tour will trace the contours of the shifting economic and political relations of the twenty-first century in the Asia-Pacific region and Europe.

Specialisations

Politics and governance

The study of politics addresses important questions about the nature of power, authority and governance: who gets what, when and how. Politics also encompasses the study of notions of freedom and agency in situations of social choice.

Philosophy

Philosophy is the study of fundamental ideas about the world we live in. It questions the nature of our world, asks what constitutes a good life in such a world, and asks what could be done to make it better. In this specialisation you'll be introduced to areas central to philosophy, including political philosophy, ethics and logic.

Economic analysis

Economic analysis provides an advanced understanding of the theories explaining and analysing the production, distribution, and consumption of goods and services, with a focus on how individuals, households, firms and governments interact and how economies work.

ANTHROPOLOGY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About anthropology

Anthropology compares different ways of life. Anthropologists provide 'insider' perspective on human behaviour by observing the lives of others, living with them, sharing their experiences and discussing their perspectives.

Why study anthropology?

Anthropologists specialise in analysing, documenting and creating social changes, and can assist in areas such as climate change, mining, social policy, Indigenous issues and development aid.

Anthropology and travel

Anthropologists travel extensively as part of their work. Monash anthropologists have travelled to outback Australia, Indonesia, Iran, Timor-Leste and many other locations.

Career options

- International development
- Health and education
- Social research
- Indigenous affairs
- Conservation and heritage work
- Multicultural affairs
- Curating and collecting work.

ARCHAEOLOGY AND ANCIENT HISTORY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About archaeology and ancient history

Archaeology and ancient history focuses on the ancient Mediterranean world and Indigenous Australian studies. You'll examine historical texts, literature and material records – such as ancient sites, monuments, art and objects – to understand how people lived, how their culture developed and what their beliefs were.

Why study archaeology and ancient history?

You'll learn about the first Australians and how their past contributes to our nation's enduring heritage. You'll investigate how the Mediterranean served as the birthplace of many influential ancient cultures, and you'll become familiar with how these cultures have contributed to the intellectual development of the western world.

Career options

- Heritage management
- Conservation
- Consultancy
- Research
- Documentary production
- Tourism
- Museum/gallery curating.

BEHAVIOURAL STUDIES

Available as a minor or electives

 Clayton, Caulfield

About behavioural studies

We explore human behaviour from social, cultural and psychological perspectives. We look at the theory and research to answer important questions around why humans behave the way they do and the social issues that arise as a consequence.

Why choose behavioural studies?

You'll develop insights into your own behaviour and motivations, as well as those of others, making you a socially aware and an interpersonally effective employee. You'll learn how to apply social psychological principles to important problems, such as domestic violence, cyberbullying, euthanasia, eating disorders, climate change and terrorism.

Career options

- Defence
- Education
- Behavioural research
- Business management
- Media and communications

COMPARATIVE ASIAN AND EUROPEAN STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

 Clayton

About comparative Asian and European studies

In the 21st century, seismic changes in the global social order are again shaking up relations between the East and the West. We will investigate how we understand the contemporary world as Asians and Europeans, through these enduring binaries of Orient and Occident, East and West, North and South. Additionally, we'll look at how narratives of a global Indigeneity and postcolonial power are challenging these binaries to imagine another planet in the 21st century.

Why study comparative Asian and European studies?

This area of study offers deep inter-Asia/Europe skills along with a sharpen focus on language. It's unique in that it draws on Australia's vantage point in the Asian region and its long-term research networks and teaching ties within the region and in Europe.

Career options

- Diplomacy
- Education
- Government
- International relations
- Non-government organisations (NGOs)
- Trade.

CRITICAL PERFORMANCE STUDIES

Available as a minor or electives

 Clayton

About critical performance studies

Take advantage of innovative facilities, outstanding opportunities, professional engagement and hands-on practical learning as you explore all aspects of creating and performing theatre.

Why study critical performance studies

You'll learn from theatre professionals, gain exposure to the world of Australian and international theatre, and rapidly develop your craft as a performer, director, stage manager or producer.

The craft, intuitive ability, confidence and contacts you'll develop will serve you throughout your career as a theatre maker.

Our staff

Our staff includes academics who are active and award-winning actors and playwrights, directors and dramaturges, as well as scholars who've published on a range of theatre and performance topics.

- International aid agencies
- Infrastructure agencies
- Research organisations.

HUMAN RIGHTS

Available as a major, minor or electives

 Clayton, Caulfield

About human rights

We explore human rights law, practice and activism, which are among the most widely accepted approaches to addressing harms suffered by humans worldwide. We look at issues such as torture, hunger, military aggression, ethnic violence, political corruption and discrimination.

Why study human rights?

You'll examine the nature and legitimacy of human rights' claims and the role of human rights in the broader context of international affairs. You'll investigate critical issues: Is torture ever justified? What are the rights of asylum seekers? Does the world have a responsibility for misplaced peoples? Can human rights violations justify interfering in the domestic affairs of the violating nation?

Career options

- Politics
- Advocacy
- Law
- Non-government organisations (NGOs)
- Journalism
- Government bodies and diplomacy.

INDONESIAN STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

 Clayton

About Indonesian studies

We've taught Indonesian studies for more than 50 years and we have one of Australia's largest Indonesian library collections. Flexible entry points ensure you'll study at a level that suits your language proficiency, and a focus on literature and linguistics topics will supercharge your development. Our program is complemented and informed by Monash Arts' extensive research in the history, politics, economy and music of Indonesia.

Why choose Indonesian studies?

Indonesia is one of the world's largest and most diverse nations, and one of Australia's nearest and most important neighbours. You'll develop strong cultural literacy and intercultural communication skills, and examine the interaction of language and culture with reference to history, performing arts, journalism, literature and translation.

Overseas study opportunities

There are many opportunities to study language and culture in Indonesia for a semester or a full year. Monash is a member of the Australian Consortium for In-Country Indonesian Study (ACICIS), which has specialist in-country programs in language, journalism, development studies and education.

- Education
- Museum
- Memorial conservation.

JAPANESE STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

 Clayton, Caulfield

About Japanese studies

We have one of the most extensive Japanese study programs in Australia, engaging you with Japanese language, culture and society. Flexible entry points (beginners, intermediate and proficient) ensure language study at a level that suits your background.

Why choose Japanese studies?

Communicating in Japanese and being sensitive to diverse international contexts are useful complements to any course of study, whether it's law, business or the visual arts. We're cross-disciplinary which means we study Japanese from a variety of perspectives – historical, artistic, religious, political, international – especially within the broader Asian context.

Overseas opportunities

You can take advantage of numerous opportunities to study in Japan through exchange programs with prominent universities, and scholarships are available from Monash as well as the Japanese government.

Career options

- Law
- International relations
- Corporate and tourism sectors
- Trade
- Government.

JOURNALISM

Available as a major, minor or electives

 Caulfield

About journalism

You may have heard that the role of a journalist is to uphold the fourth estate. But what does that mean? It means that you're the one who finds the real story before the rest of us realise the story is even there. You're the one who informs us about the problems and achievements of our society; between our community and the world. There's no more important job.

Why study journalism?

Journalism will teach you the skills to write succinctly, to a word limit and to a deadline. It'll teach you to question ideas, and to question people face-to-face. You'll learn to think on your feet and quickly gain an understanding of an issue. It'll also teach you to be accurate, check your sources, dig deeper and analyse data to find the next big story in the field that most interests you. You'll learn to use the very latest technologies in our multi-million dollar Monash Media Lab, one of the most advanced of its kind in Australia.

Career options

Many of our graduates fulfil their aspiration to become a journalist. They've joined metropolitan papers, the ABC and SBS, along with commercial radio, TV and digital-only outlets. Others have gone on to careers in communications, speech writing and other professions where the skills of journalism are in demand.

KOREAN STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

About Korean studies

Language teaching at Monash uses interactive and multimedia resources to bring Korean culture and language to life. You'll be introduced to Hangul, the Korean phonetic writing system, which will enable you to type in Korean from beginner's level onwards. Our academics are world leaders in the field of Korean history, literary studies and language education.

Why study Korean?

Korea is one of Australia's largest trading partners, and the close political and strategic relationship between the two countries is constantly developing and expanding in a number of sectors, including trade, education and tourism. Developing a high level of linguistic and intercultural competence will give you a clear advantage when applying for jobs and it will diversify your career options.

Overseas opportunities

All students are strongly encouraged to participate in the overseas exchange programs with Korea, where we have agreements with four prominent universities.

Career options

- Trade
- Commerce
- International relations
- Tourism
- Community service
- Education.

LITERARY STUDIES

Available as a major, minor or electives

About literary studies

Literary studies brings together people who are passionate about literature and creative writing. Through core units you'll be exposed to different cultural and historical contexts. You'll then have the option to take electives from either literary studies or creative writing.

Why choose literary studies?

You'll study some of the best-known and most interesting contemporary and historical literature, including novels, poems, short stories and non-fiction. You'll develop an advanced understanding of literature in cultural, historical and professional contexts, be able to discuss literature informed by an understanding of literary movements, themes, genres and literary theory, and be able to explain how and why literature continues to shape society.

Career options

- Creative industries
- Literary research
- Commercial publishing
- Professional and creative writing
- Literary research
- Government and cultural policy
- Arts administration
- Marketing.

LINGUISTICS AND ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Available as a major, minor or electives

About linguistics and English language

Language is central to human life, and linguistics is the scientific study of language and its application. It explores the way we understand, acquire and use language, both spoken and written. And while it considers the diverse characteristics of individual languages, it also uncovers the deeper properties that all languages share. You'll explore multilingualism and multilingual societies, including areas such as language and globalisation, language learning and teaching and language endangerment. You'll also have the option to specialise in English as an international language.

Why study linguistics and English language?

Studying linguistics and English language will enable you to analyse the role of social interaction and the relationship between language, society, identity and culture. You'll be able to communicate more effectively across cultures, and explore the ways in which language enables human thought and feeling to be revealed in sounds or written shapes, and the ways speakers and listeners navigate this process.

Career options

- Audiology
- Information technology
- Creative writing
- Journalism
- Communications
- Foreign affairs
- Law
- Immigration.

MUSIC

Available as a major, minor or electives

How can you study music at Monash?

There are different ways to include music in your studies. You can audition to enrol in the Bachelor of Music, or if you're studying another course, such as a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science, you can still include non-practical music units as a major, minor or elective. There's also an opportunity to join a range of small and large ensembles, some of which require an audition.

Studying music in your Arts course

A major or minor in music allows you to develop critical, analytical and interpretive skills to investigate different areas of music, such as western art music, popular and world music, song writing and improvisation.

The major or minor in music within the Bachelor of Arts is available to students who have no previous music experience.

Career options

- Music reviewing
- Archivist
- Journalism
- Teaching
- Arts administration
- Marketing
- Media and communications.

PHILOSOPHY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About philosophy

Almost everyone has been puzzled by a philosophical question at some point. For example: Is morality objective or simply a matter of opinion? What is personal identity? What is consciousness? Is it rational to believe in God? These are some of the central issues we address in philosophy.

Why study philosophy?

Philosophy students become excellent communicators, forming clear and persuasive arguments, conceiving complex ideas and developing as independent thinkers. Philosophy studies are very popular with Arts/Laws students. You'll be inspired to think outside the square and look at the world in a different way.

Career options

- Non-government organisations (NGOs)
- Business
- Law
- Journalism
- Policy and government departments
- Teaching
- Research.

PSYCHOLOGY

About psychology

Psychology is concerned with a wide range of phenomena, including remembering and forgetting, thinking, problem-solving, learning, acquiring skills, language, seeing and hearing, verbal and non-verbal communication, social interactions and emotions. It focuses on understanding biological, social and environmental influences on people and societies.

Why study psychology?

You'll benefit from one of the best scientist practitioner models of psychological education Australia has to offer, emerging with a deep insight into the human mind, and a suite of highly valued professional skills that can be applied to any field of work.

Career options

- Market research
- Community agencies
- Recruitment companies
- Education
- Government departments
- Health and welfare services
- Police force
- Law courts and prisons
- Private practice and training
- Development services.

POLITICS

Available as a major, minor or electives

About politics

Politics is the study of power relations in society. It helps you understand essential issues about how societies are organised and their key institutions, including government, parliament and political parties.

Why study politics?

Politics offers you a way of engaging in vital questions about power and authority, how people govern communities and the relationship between ideas and practice. You'll learn how contemporary political systems emerged and the fundamental ideas that propelled their development. You'll learn to evaluate and compare different political systems and their key institutions.

Career options

- Politics
- Government administration
- Non-government organisations (NGOs)
- Journalism
- Industrial relations
- Lobbying and advocacy
- Business
- Finance.

SOCIOLOGY

Available as a major, minor or electives

About sociology

Sociologists investigate the key social and global issues of our time. We focus on diverse communities, cultures and processes of change. We examine class, gender, ethnicity, power and culture to understand how societies work and how social problems can be solved.

Why choose sociology?

Our sociology program is among the most highly-ranked sociology programs in Australia, with your lecturers being leaders in the discipline. On graduation you'll have the capacity to critically assess major social problems, social design, undertake and assess research – ranging from broad scale statistical studies to small scale qualitative research – with diverse communities.

Career options

- The public service
- Research organisations

If there's one thing to look out for, it's a place with good internships, and genuinely Monash was great at supplying those. I did five internships all up and two of those internships led to a job."

UNDERSTANDING THE TERMINOLOGY

Comprehensive degree

At Monash Arts, this refers to the Bachelor of Arts. A comprehensive degree gives you the choice and flexibility to select your units (subjects), and requires you to complete 24 units in three years, including specific requirements such as completing an Arts major and Professional Futures units.

Specialist degree

At Monash Arts, this refers to the Bachelor of Criminology, Bachelor of Criminology and Policing, Bachelor of Global Studies, Bachelor of Media Communication, Bachelor of Music, and Bachelor of Politics, Philosophy and Economics. You need to complete 24 units in three years and meet the core requirements of the degree, for example, completing one of the nominated specialisations, studying the prescribed minor, studying overseas, or undertaking a professional project.

Units

Sometimes called a subject, units are usually worth six credit points. You need to complete 144 credit points in a three-year degree. Some second-year and third-year units are worth 12 credit points, and are counted as two units – these units have a higher workload.

Areas of study

An 'area of study' is a field of knowledge – for example, literary studies or sociology. Areas of study are sometimes called 'disciplines' See pages 24–33.

Major

A major is eight units from the same area of study. In the Bachelor of Arts you can choose to study one or two majors, and you don't have to decide on your major straight away.

Arts electives/Minor

A minor is four units from the same area of study. In a Bachelor of Arts, you can choose to complete a minor or four individual units from your chosen areas. In most specialist degrees, your minor is prescribed.

Specialisation

An Arts specialisation consists of 10–12 units and is a requirement of any of the specialist degrees.

Elective

There are eight free elective units in all single Arts degrees. These can be taken from Arts or from another area such as Information Technology, Science or Business.

Bachelor's degree

A bachelor's degree is also referred to as an undergraduate degree and is generally your first degree out of high school.

Master's degree

A master's degree is also referred to as postgraduate degree and is a higher qualification to a bachelor's degree, usually taken after you've completed a bachelor's degree.
