1. Processes for Entry Credit and All Other Types of Credit
The procedures have been divided into two separate categories:

   - Coursework Masters - entry credit.
   - All Other Credit Applications - information for all other types of credit are listed in Section 3.

2. Entry Credit for Coursework Master’s Students
   a. Application Process
      i. Where a Master’s course has multiple entry points as part of its approved structure, applicants will be assessed for entry credit at the time of their application for admission to the course is considered. Applicants will indicate on the admission application form the entry point that they are seeking.

      ii. Students may elect not to receive the entry credit to which they are entitled.

      iii. When entry credit has been rejected by a student, the student may request that it be reinstated. However, whether to grant such a request is at the discretion of the Faculty. When considering a request to reinstate previously rejected entry credit the Faculty may consider changes to the student’s study plans and any other changed circumstances that may be relevant.

   b. Documentation Required
      When applying for the course, the applicant must provide evidence of previous education or equivalent so that the information may be assessed and the point of entry into the course determined.

   c. Notification:
      Applicants will be notified of the entry-level credit available to them in the Letter of Offer. The Offer letter will state how many credit points the student needs to complete to graduate from their chosen course.

Applicants

3. All other credit applications
   a. Application Process
      i. There is a single university credit application form which the applicant needs to complete to be assessed for credit. The Dean (or delegate) will assess each application on equivalency and recency.

      ii. There is no charge for credit assessment for a current student or student who has been made an offer in a course offered from an Australian location.
Monash University Procedures

iii. Where credit has not been assessed prior to enrolment in the course, a student must apply for credit for previous learning by the end of the first week of their first semester of study so that, if credit is granted, their commencing enrolment can be adjusted accordingly. Credit may still be assessed for late applications, but there is no guarantee that the course structure will permit it to be granted.

iv. Credit is granted towards a specific Monash course. Students who transfer to a different course must re-apply for credit towards the new course.

v. Students may elect not to receive some or all of the credit to which they are entitled.

vi. For credit to be granted, the student must authorise this. International students enrolled in courses offered from an Australian location are required to authorise explicitly the credit that is granted to them, by returning a signed authorisation. Other students are considered to have authorised the credit granted to them if the faculty has provided them with an assessment of the credit for which they are eligible and the student proceeds to enrol.

vii. Students may ask that credit be removed from their record of study if their study plans change (eg, a change of specialisation) so that the space within the degree may be used for further units. When credit has been rejected by a student, the student may request that it be reinstated. However, whether to grant such a request is at the discretion of the Faculty. When considering a request to reinstate previously rejected credit the Faculty may consider changes to the student’s study plans and any other changed circumstances that may be relevant.

viii. If students fail Monash units, they may not subsequently apply for nor be granted credit for previous study of those units.

ix. Where credit has been granted, students will (if the course structure permits) be provided with a course map showing the requirements fulfilled by the credit and the requirements remaining to be fulfilled for course completion.

For cross-institutional/complementary studies

x. Enrolled coursework students who wish to study at another institution and receive credit towards their course must seek approval in writing from the Monash faculty. Students apply using the cross-institution/complementary studies application form. The faculty will consider equivalence of content and learning outcomes, and whether there is significant educational advantage for the proposed program of study. The faculty will write to the student advising whether they will receive credit for successful completion of the proposed enrolment. This rule applies to cross-institutional study, study abroad and exchange study. Credit will not be granted if the student’s approved enrolment at the other institution is varied without authorisation.

xi. Graduate research students who wish to enrol in a coursework unit/s or a course of study at another institution must have prior approval from the Graduate Research Committee.

c. Timelines

i. The timing and mode of the application will influence the timing and mode of notification to students.

ii. Applications for credit for formal learning where there are current precedents will normally be assessed within 10 working days. A longer period may be required where full assessment is required, particularly at peak admission and enrolment times.

iii. Applications for credit for non-formal and informal learning will normally be assessed within 20 working days. A longer period may be required at peak admission and enrolment times.

d. Notification

i. VTAC applicants will be assessed for credit as part of the enrolment process.

ii. Current students: The faculty will notify current enrolled students of the outcome of their credit application by University student email where practicable.

iii. International students: Where credit is granted to international students after enrolment, the faculty will email the student informing them of their credit status, normally before the end of the second week of study. The student must reply authorizing acceptance of the credit. If authorization is not received from the student, the credit will not be processed.

Responsibility

e. Assessment

i. Assessment of higher degree research and coursework credit is an academic responsibility.

ii. Any new assessments where there are no documented precedents or where content or learning outcomes of previously assessed units or courses has changed, will be referred to nominated academic staff.

iii. Standard assessments based on established precedents may be delegated in writing to appropriate nominated faculty staff or University Admissions staff.

\(^2\) Such as a Justice of the Peace, registered Medical Practitioner or Veterinary Surgeon, Pharmacist, or a Police Officer who has served for more than five continuous years.
iv. Credit will be granted for VCE enhancement or single units undertaken at Monash University, for the same units where course structure permits. VCE enhancement or single units successfully completed at other institutions will be considered for credit.

v. In checking whether previous study falls within the limit on recency of study for credit, appropriate nominated faculty staff will have in place a process which will calculate the date on which the results were released for that unit or course to the date of the commencement of the course the student wishes to enrol in.

vi. Where credit is sought as part of a double degree course or for a unit that is not taught by the degree awarding faculty, the following process is followed:
   - Application for credit is lodged with the course managing faculty,
   - Course managing faculty forwards a copy of the credit application with appropriate documentation to the degree awarding faculty,
   - Degree awarding faculty sends credit assessment documentation to teaching faculty (if different),
   - Teaching faculty returns completed credit assessment to degree awarding faculty,
   - Degree awarding faculty keys credit assessment outcomes for their component of the double degree,
   - Degree awarding faculty notifies student of the outcome.
   - Degree awarding faculty notifies course managing faculty that credit assessment for their component has been completed and entered into the student management system.
   - Course managing faculty ensures process has been completed.

5. Institutional Agreements with registered providers:
   i. Australian registered providers:
      - Requests for articulation agreements, credit transfer arrangements or block credit arrangements from Australian education and training providers will be assessed by the faculty, which will assess the institution's qualification for equivalence of content and learning outcomes. The faculty will advise the institution of the outcomes of the assessment.
Monash University Procedures

- All credit transfer and articulations agreements with Australian providers must be reported to the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Education) (or delegate) and will be added to a central register of articulation agreements.

ii. Overseas registered providers:
- For overseas providers, the Admission Pathways Expert Advisory Group (APEAG) will assess the institution's qualifications for AQF equivalence and the faculty will assess the equivalence of content and learning outcomes. Where the original curriculum documentation is in a language other than English, a translation by an accredited translator must be provided. The Admission Pathways Expert Advisory Group, after consultation with the faculty, will notify the requesting institution in a timely manner.
- New credit transfer and articulation agreements with overseas education providers and renewal and variations to such agreements must be approved by the Dean (or delegate). Global Engagement is responsible for keeping a central register and reporting agreements to the University Education Committee for noting.

6. Quality Assurance Review Cycle

i. Credit arrangements will be reviewed by the faculty education committee (or equivalent) every three years (or earlier if required by the faculty).

ii. In order to ensure the integrity of credit decisions, the subsequent academic performance of student cohorts receiving credit should be monitored.

iii. Articulation, credit transfer and block credit transfer arrangements will be reviewed every three years, and the review will be reported to the Dean via the faculty education committee (or equivalent). Where the partner institution in a block credit transfer arrangement, or an award for which articulation, credit transfer or block credit is given, changes the curriculum substantially, the block credit transfer arrangement will be reviewed as soon as is practicable, and at latest within three months.
