NOTE FROM THE DEAN

Professor Simon Wilkie

Every year, Monash Business School seeks to celebrate the School's student excellence and recognise achievements that truly encapsulate the Monash experience.

A signature achievement is our annual Future Global Leaders awards.

I am delighted to announce that the 2024 recipients are:

- Aishath Shira (Undergraduate)
- Liam Dillon (Postgraduate)

Both students reflect not just the Monash motto of Ancora Imparo ("I am still learning"), but also have a demonstrated commitment to the challenges of the age identified by Monash University, including tackling climate change and helping to develop thriving communities.

Aishath Shira developed a thriving business creating reusable tote bags for tourists at her family's guesthouse in the Maldives from discarded plastic bags and single use plastics that marred the pristine beaches of her beloved island home.

While studying a Bachelor of Business and Commerce at Monash Malaysia, Ms Shira decided to amplify her impact, teaming up with her twin sister to launch a second tote business catering to eco-conscious university students.

Master of Economics student, Liam Dillon researched the profound impacts of natural disasters in Australia between 1970 and 2022, extending beyond the financial to address mental health and social welfare.

Now an economist for the Community for the Economic Development of Australia (CEDA), he remains steadfast in his commitment to sustainable economic prosperity.

You can read more about them in this program.

Also in this program are our 2023 Student Course recipients – look for your name there if you are a recipient – as well as our individual Department Unit Awards and the Dean's Honour List and Commendation List.

As a Monash University student, you can be reassured that the education you receive is among the world's best: in 2024, Monash Business School was ranked 46th in the world by the Times Higher Education (THE) in the Business and Economics Subject Ranking.

Being a Monash Business School graduate means your studies will be recognised for its quality around the world, with the depth and knowledge to really make a difference.

That will always be our commitment to you.

2024 DEAN'S EQUITY, DIVERSITY AND SOCIAL INCLUSION AWARD

The Dean's Equity, Diversity and Social Inclusion Student Award recognises an individual student or student team who has made a significant contribution to progressing a culture of equity, diversity and social inclusion in the Monash Business School.

Strengthening student voice:
Jonathan Robberts

The pursuit of knowledge can be a lonely endeavour, but PhD candidate Jonathan Robberts refused to let isolation define the research experience for himself or his fellow students.

"I recognised quite early on that our community was not always well connected socially as a community," he said.

"I have made lifelong friends and professional connections throughout my PhD, and I wanted to make sure everyone in our cohort had access to the same opportunities."

Drawing on his doctoral research into organisational change and professional identity, Mr Robberts believed he could foster a stronger sense of belonging.

His solution? The HDR Student Representative Network - a cross-disciplinary forum to serve as a launchpad for community building.

"What we do relies on collaboration, so the sooner our students feel like they're part of a wider community, the greater their ability to make a real impact," he said.

His efforts to improve the student experience didn't stop there.

As a tireless advocate on the Business School's Research Degrees Committee and Dean's Student Forum, Mr Robberts worked to ensure the voices of graduate researchers were heard.

His dedication to fostering a thriving community for his fellow graduate researchers has earned Mr Robberts the 2024 Dean's Equity, Diversity and Social Inclusion Award.

"Winning this award has made me feel incredibly proud of the HDR Representative Network for their commitment to representing our cohort to advance positive change," he said.

"As I come to the end of my PhD and time at Monash University, I am excited to see how the network evolves in the coming years."

2024 FUTURE GLOBAL LEADERS AWARD

The Monash Business School Future Global Leaders Award recognises students who are committed to the development of sustainable businesses and practices that contribute to the economic, environmental and social development of communities, and who demonstrate the drive and ambition to become global leaders of the future.

Combating plastic pollution: Aishath Shira

For Aishath Shira, running a small business in paradise is about more than just soaking up the sunshine – it's about using commerce as a force for good.

After witnessing the growing menace of plastic pollution marring the pristine beaches of her beloved island home in the Maldives, Ms Shira decided to take action.

"My father opened a guest house in 2014, and since then, after snorkelling trips, he and his employees would often have to collect plastic bags and other single-use plastics from the ocean," she said.

"My family and I decided to make reusable tote bags for tourists at the guesthouse, and this helped me realise the positive environmental impact we could have on the island's sustainability."

While pursuing her Bachelor of Business and Commerce at Monash Malaysia, Ms Shira decided to amplify her impact, teaming up with her twin sister to launch a second tote business catering to eco-conscious university students.

"We provide stylish, customisable, and eco-friendly tote bags at an affordable price, to help reduce plastic waste," she said.

Ms Shira shared the insights and experiences she had gained from her entrepreneurial efforts to inspire her classmates during her capstone unit, Integrative Business Practices.

"This provided the students with real-life experience in starting a business and selling products," she said.

This commitment to sustainability and willingness to empower others has earned Ms Shira the prestigious 2024 Future Global Leader Undergraduate Award.

"Winning this award is a huge honour, and it's attributed to my mum and dad, who inspired my journey towards a cleaner and sustainable future," she said.

With her tote business thriving, ongoing research into plastic pollution in the Maldives, and a Master's in Sustainable Development Management in progress, she is already well on her way to making a lasting difference.

Counting the cost: Liam Dillon

Liam Dillon is a firm believer that environmental and economic wellbeing can go hand-in-hand.

"I've always been interested in the intersection between climate change and economics, and how we can make sustainable decisions that protect the environment while also maintaining standards of living for Australians," he said.

As a Master of Economics student, his research quantified the cost of natural disasters in Australia between 1970 and 2022.

"The damages can soar into the billions, with an average annualised cost nearing $4 billion," he said.

But the cost is not only financial; there are profound impacts on mental health and social welfare.

"Better planning for these events can hopefully mitigate some of those outcomes," he said.

While still studying, Mr Dillon worked as an intern at one of Australia's leading think tanks, the Grattan Institute.

There, he contributed to analysis to promote reform of the Federal Government's fuel tax credit system.

"We found it was an outdated policy tool primarily benefiting heavy emitters and distorting incentives away from more environmentally conscious fuel sources like battery-powered fleets or hydrogen-powered vehicles," he said.

Now an economist for the Community for the Economic Development of Australia (CEDA), he remains steadfast in his commitment to sustainable economic prosperity.

"We provide economic research and liaise with chief executives, politicians and thought leaders to address areas of national and global economic significance," he said.

His most recent report for CEDA explored how Australia can leverage its natural resources to seize emerging opportunities in the global green economy.

Mr Dillon said being named our 2024 Future Global Leader Postgraduate Award recipient was "incredibly humbling".

"It invigorates me to continue leveraging the skills I gained at Monash to find solutions to some of Australia and the world's most pressing economic issues," he said.
